Forrester, Jay Wright Forrester, 1969 USA Analysis of dynamics of urbanization problems based on a simulation computer model of a system to prevent urban decline covers theoretical aspects urban planning housing improvement of the environment the role of the urban area public administration in implementing community development and revival policies financial aspects motivation of entrepreneurship etc Diagrams and references

Urban Dynamics and Urban Externalities Y. Kanemoto, T. Miyao, 2013-10-08 This title combines reviews of two of the most important branches of urban economics dynamics and externalities

Urban Dynamics and Spatial Choice Behaviour J. Hauer, Harry J.P. Timmermans, N. Wrigley, 2012-12-06 This book arises from The Fourth European Colloquium on Theoretical and Quantitative Geography which was held in Venlo, The Netherlands in September 1985 It contains a series of papers on spatial choice dynamics and dynamical spatial systems which were presented at the colloquium together with a few other solicited ones The book is intended primarily as a state of the art review of mainly European research on these two fast growing problem areas As a consequence of this decision the book contains a selection of papers that differs in terms of focus level of sophistication and conceptual background Evidently the dissemination of ideas and computer software is a time related phenomenon which in the European context is amplified by differences in language the profile of geography and the formal training of geographers The book reflects such differences It would have been impossible to produce this book without the support of the various European study groups on theoretical and quantitative geography Without their help the meetings from which this volume originates would not have been held in the first place We are also indebted to the Royal Dutch Academy of Science for partly funding the colloquium and to SISWO and TNO/JPSO for providing general support in the organisation of the conference

Rural-Urban Dynamics Jytte Agergaard, Niels Fold, Katherine Gough, 2009-09-11 It has increasingly been recognised that rural and urban areas are inextricably interlinked This book adopts a fresh approach to the issue of rural urban dynamics through a study of the changing nature of livelihoods mobility and markets in ten study sites across four countries of Africa and Asia Building on detailed fieldwork conducted in Ghana Tanzania Vietnam and Thailand the authors explore how settlements and livelihoods are being transformed as long term inhabitants and recent migrants embrace new economic activities many of which are linked to global markets The book is structured around the concept of frontier which is conceptualized as being a dynamic space where the forces of economic demographic and social change are brought to bear The study sites include agricultural frontiers coffee cocoa pineapples and fresh fruit handicraft and manufacturing frontiers and mining frontiers gold and diamonds In all of the cases global value chain dynamics have played a pivotal role in shaping local livelihoods Some settlements are developing into new urban centres whilst others are suffering from a boom and bust experience due to the unreliability of export markets The similarities and differences between the frontier settlements are drawn out by comparing frontiers of similar types and by highlighting the theoretical and policy implications of the findings from all the frontier types The originality of the book lies in its combination of conceptual clarity methodological coherence and empirical richness By combining detailed empirical findings with theoretical insight from debates on livelihoods global value chains mobility patterns settlement dynamics and rural urban relations the book sheds new light on these issues within an overall framework of development trajectories in Africa and Asia Given scholars and international agencies current interest in the spatial dimensions of economic development this contribution is particularly timely with its fresh geographical approach to development issues this book is a pertinent and authoritative read for anyone researching or learning in the field of development

This monograph presents urban simulation methods that help in better understanding urban dynamics Over historical times cities have progressively absorbed a larger part of human population and will concentrate three quarters of humankind before the end of the century This urban transition that has totally transformed the way we inhabit the planet is globally understood in its socio economic rationales but is less frequently questioned as a spatio temporal process However the cities because they are intrinsically linked in a game of competition for resources and development self organize in systems of cities where their future becomes more and more interdependent The high frequency and intensity of interactions between cities explain that urban systems all over the world exhibit large similarities in their hierarchical and functional structure and rather regular dynamics They are complex systems whose emergence structure and further evolution are widely governed by the multiple kinds of interaction that link the various actors and institutions investing in cities their efforts capital knowledge and intelligence Simulation models that reconstruct this dynamics may help in better understanding it and exploring future plausible evolutions of urban systems This would provide better insight about how societies can manage the ecological transition at local regional and global scales The author has developed a series of instruments that greatly improve the techniques of validation for such models of social sciences that can be submitted to many applications in a variety of geographical situations Examples are given for several BRICS countries Europe and United States The target audience primarily comprises research experts in the field of urban dynamics but the book may also be beneficial for graduate students

Rethinking the City Vincent Kaufmann, 2011 Conditions for travel have changed and are still changing the world a world experiencing what John Urry calls the mobility turn Since World War Two we have been moving faster and going further a fact that has profoundly changed our way of experiencing both the world and ourselves The explosion of low cost travel options has similarly had an important impact on the economy adding to the globalization of markets and transformations in modes of production It is no longer possible to think of nation states as autonomous vis a vis one another nor of cities or regions as homogenous spaces delimited by clear cut borders Societies like Western cities are redefining themselves through mobility What does this mean for the city for its governability and governance In this book Vincent Kaufmann assesses the urban implications of the mobility turn He explores the modern urban phenomenon from the point of view of the mobility capacities of its players their motility He asks that the reader consider the idea of a city or region as the product or an arrangement of a specific set of motilities Re Thinking the City seeks to identify how the motility of individuals goods and information acts as an organizing principle or rather the organizing principle of contemporary urban change and then aims to examine the consequences for urban governance by exploring the channels through which individual and collective motility can be regulated

Urban Dynamics Kan Chen, 1972

Modeling Urban Dynamics Marius Thériault, François Des Rosiers, 2013-02-04 The field of Urban Dynamics itself is based on the systems engineering concept that all complex systems and cities and urban areas are no exception are comprised of independent and often smaller more understandable sub components with relationships to one another This allows for the system as a whole to be modeled using knowledge of the individual subsystems and their behaviors In this instance urban dynamics allows for the modeling and understanding of land use the attractiveness of space to residents and how the ageing and obsolescence of buildings affects planning and economic development as well as population movements with the urban landscape The book adopts a trans disciplinary approach that looks at the way residential mobility commuting patterns and travel behavior affect the urban form It addresses a series of issues dealing with the accessibility of urban amenities quality of life and assessment of landscape residential choices as well as measurement of external factors in the urban environment and their impact on property values
