Violence Through Environmental Discrimination:

Violence Through Environmental Discrimination Günther Baechler, 2013-03-09 Since all out interstate wars for the time being seem to belong to the past conflict studies focus more and more on domestic conflicts This is a broad field not only because the arbitrary line between war and sub war violence disappears and the analyst is confronted with phenomena reaching from criminal violence and clashes between communities to violent conflicts of long duration and civil wars with massacres and genocides as their characteristics It is also because there are so many different types of conflicts to be analyzed so many different types of behavior to be studied whereas there is often little information available on what is really going on Against the background of internal conflicts which tend to be as protracted as diffuse in terms of time intensity actors and their goals this study aims to follow a specific pathway through the current thicket of violent circumstances It focuses on causation patterns by exploring the causal role of the environmental factor in the genesis of violent conflicts occurring today and probably even more so tomorrow This approach which for once does not focus on a specific level of the conflict system on one area in the conflict geography or on a specific category of actors analyzes causation dynamics

Environmental Security Rita Floyd, Richard Matthew, 2026-01-22 This book offers a comprehensive survey of the distinctive theoretical approaches fundamental issues and key actors that are central to the contemporary field of environmental security studies Through a series of chapters written by leading experts this volume provides readers with an overview of environmental security studies an arena of considerable policy and research attention that has evolved quickly over the past several decades The relationships linking climate change biodiversity loss and pollution to different ways of thinking about and optimizing security are broadly relevant complex and intensifying Contributors to this volume provide authoritative analyses of competing and complementary theoretical approaches key issues including food water and energy and the actions and aspirations of multilateral national and sub national actors This book has been carefully designed to benefit anyone interested in environmental and climate security It is especially valuable as required reading for students at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels Beyond that it serves as a reliable resource for established researchers in the field as well as advocates policymakers security professionals climate change and other environmentalists and members of the public

Environmental Security Simon Dalby, 2002 Since the end of the Cold War environmental matters especially the international implications of environmental degradation have figured prominently in debates about rethinking security But do the assumptions underlying such discussions hold up under close scrutiny In this first treatment of environmental security from a truly critical perspective Simon Dalby shows how attempts to explain contemporary insecurity falter over unexamined notions of both environment and security Adding environmental history aboriginal perspectives and geopolitics to the analysis explicitly suggests that the growing disruptions caused by a carbon fueled and expanding modernity are at the root of contemporary difficulties Environmental Security argues that rethinking security means revisiting the question of how we conceive identities as endangered and how we perceive threats to these identities The book clearly demonstrates that the conceptual basis for critical security studies requires an extended engagement with political theory and with the assumptions of the modern subject as progressive political agent Viewed thus on a global scale the environmental security discourse raises profoundly troubling political questions as to who we are and what kind of world we are collectively making in our efforts to be secure

Environmental Change and Security Project Report, 2000 Environmental Peacemaking Ken Conca, Geoffrey D. Dabelko, 2002-11-13 Eight contributions written by professors of political science government and politics as well as researchers and program directors for environmental change energy and security projects provide insight into the process of environmental peacemaking based on their experiences in a variety of international regions An initial chapter makes a case for the process successive chapters address the Baltic South Asia the Aral Sea basin southern Africa the Caspian Sea and the US Mexican border Annotation c 2003 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Environment & Security in an International Context Kurt M. Lietzmann, Gary D. Vest, 1999 Ecology, Politics and Violent Conflict Mohamed Suliman, 1999 Violent internal conflicts in more and more countries are ruining the lives of millions of people and undermining the ability of their governments to provide security and a tolerable economic existence The contributors to this book take a new view of the reasons for this grave development in Africa the Balkans Central Asia and elsewhere They question traditional analyses of conflict which rely primarily on ethnic religious and cultural explanations since these do not take account of the increasingly obvious link between the growing scarcity of renewable resources and violent conflict in developing countries Shortages of cropland fresh water woodfuel pasture and marine resources cannot be ignored At the same time this book argues that one cannot understand domestic conflicts simply in environmental terms For environmental scarcity functions in a society within a complex matrix of historically derived economic and political situations In particular an unequal social distribution of resources exacerbates scarcity and fuels popular conflict Environmental Policy: International environmental policy Wolfgang Rüdiger, 1999 Copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR War and Water Sarah Fleming, 1999 El valor del agua en el mundo es de tal importancia que en muchos casos puede ser causa de guerras y violencia civil e incluso puede ser usada como arma fundamental en los conflictos Este libro pretende ofrecer soluciones para que el agua pueda ser usada y distribuida equitativamente y que su escasez nunca pueda ser la causa de una guerra en el mundo Journal of Peace Research, 2008-11 Negotiating Environmental Justice in Helon Habila's "Oil on Water" and Indra Sinha's "Animal's People", 2023-04-25 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 5 University of Heidelberg language English abstract This paper analyzes how aspects of environmental injustices are staged and negotiated in the plots of both contemporary novels Animal's People by Indra Sinha and Oil on water by Helon Habila Here particular focus is placed on the parallels between the two novels as well as on the divide between the Global South and the Global North The subsequent chapter outlines the theoretical framework of environmental justice by portraying its emergence its four different aspects and its application to the division between the Global South and the North The third chapter applies each aspect of environmental justice to the plot of the two novels Here the aspect of social injustice refers primarily to the social consequences of corporate and government activities Lastly chapter four summarizes the results and draws conclusions

The Agrarian Question in Tanzania? Sam Maghimbi,Razack Bakari Lokina,Mathew A. Senga,2011 There are about four million peasant families in Tanzania They farm on the smallest scale the average farm being two acres in size The principal agricultural equipment is the hand hoe Since the onset of the colonial era those in authority have pursued policies to dominate the peasantry It is argued that the small scale of operations has contributed to the widespread poverty among farmers There is still good agricultural land that is not farmed but the current land tenure of peasants reproduces itself on new farmland The conclusion is that in order to accelerate agricultural development land tenure must be institutionalized
