

What is Yellow?

By, Kaylee Chiang

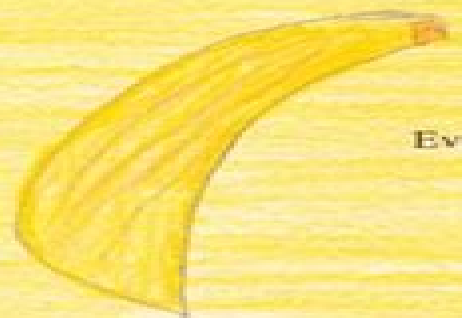

This is the color of a smile,
Silly and fun just like the sun,
It makes you laugh,
It makes you cry,
Don't let life pass you by,
It's bitter and bold,
But can break through the cold,
It shows the way you feel,
When it might not be a big deal.

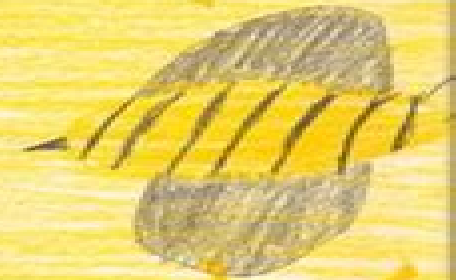

Smells like a fresh spring morning,
Full of joy,
Never boring,

Smiles are as bright as all the stars combined,
And one should stop to rewind,
The moon beams glisten in the night sky,
The sun beams whispered "Oh my."
The big beautiful sun is your alarm clock,
Every morning it reminds you tick-tock.

When you smile, a light goes on,
Even at the break of dawn,
All of the animals moving,
And the birds chirping,
Even someone with a milkshake slurping,
This is what you hear,
This is what you see,
Don't you feel filled with glee?

When you want to be happy,
Just think of this rhyme,
It doesn't take too much of your time,
Always be nice,
Always stay cool,
And look, you notice there is no rule.

What Yellow Sounds Like Linda Susan Jackson,2007 What is most compelling about Linda Susan Jackson s debut collection of poems What Yellow Sounds Like is the extraordinary self possession of its young female narrator as she seeks to answer who am I and to whom do I belong These poems are about the process of shaping the identity of one girl who comes from a line of technicolor women who have honey suckle buried freely in the folds of their flesh a girl who comes from men who bit their tongues ate dirt dust and their pride Worked anywhere and could soar off the ground The terrain of Jackson s poems is particular perilous loving humorous passionate uncompromising contradictory in other words vastly human The language is varied and inflected with the blues and like the blues pulls readers in through images and details that are both concrete and symbolic Poem after poem charts the stages of this young girl s development through her relationships with her family her history and the America into which she is born that is defined by race skin color gender and class The narrator develops a profound and essential connection to the legendary singer Etta James the canary colored blues woman and she recognizes the power in the sound of words as she recollects how Etta James churned up her roar to keep other women from dying Near the end of the book her great grandmother tells her Everything don t need to be told Some things must In this moment the narrator is empowered to decide what to tell and to tell it in her own voice These poems celebrate the sheer will and determination of the self to seek out and find who or what it needs to grow and prosper Because she was homesick for the smell of Virginia tobacco and pit roasted hog because she longed to hear her big brother scratch out blues on his box because she craved the feel of corn silk and had six stair step children before she was twenty five she went to the funerals of strangers from Family Outing

Flying Yellow Suzanne Underwood Rhodes,2021-04-01

The poems in Flying Yellow cry out for the day just out of reach the day which unaccountably may in a moment or a season let down a joyful light into the obscurity of human trial A hopeful belief in heaven and the end of suffering colors these profoundly spiritual often uneasy poems Carried by musical currents that shape her work Rhodes ventures into what she calls the good dark stuff of experience good because the dark is where Christ went willingly to take it captive Whether probing the meaning of her own personal traumas or those of historical figures like Mary Rowlandson and Dorothy Bradford whether peeling back layers of habitual sight to see the natural world of robins and ghost crabs and shorelines more truly she brings the reader alongside in each surprising encounter to see the possibilities of light
