

Song Review

"The song is plain about killing oneself. Killing oneself by drowning, as it is clear from, breathing underwater till the end, that is till you finally die. The river may be seen, as this personified entity in the song, that knows about him, that leads him to his death. We can assume, or even imagine that river here is about to take him to his death, and he is talking to another third person, looking back while going with the river. The lines, please believe me, the river told me, please believe me, if you don't believe me and 'Want you to hold me' could be used to show that the protagonist was indeed talking to a third person oblivious to the presence of the river, and insisting them to believe him. He is not totally convinced that he should be going with the river and wants the person to hold him."
