Echolocation in Bats and Dolphins Jeanette A. Thomas,Cynthia F. Moss,Marianne Vater,2004 Although bats and dolphins live in very different environments are vastly different in size and hunt different kinds of prey both groups have evolved similar sonar systems known as echolocation to locate food and navigate the skies and seas While much research has been conducted over the past thirty years on echolocation in bats and dolphins this volume is the first to compare what is known about echolocation in each group to point out what information is missing and to identify future areas of research
Echolocation in Bats and Dolphins consists of six sections mechanisms of echolocation signal production the anatomy and physiology of signal reception and interpretation performance and cognition ecological and evolutionary aspects of echolocation mammals theoretical and methodological topics and possible echolocation capabilities in other mammals including shrews seals and baleen whales Animal behaviorists ecologists physiologists and both scientists and engineers who work in the field of bioacoustics will benefit from this book      Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office ,1998      Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office United States.
