Teaching Translation and Interpreting Łukasz Bogucki, Mikołaj Deckert, 2012-12-21 Translation is a phenomenon that affects us all on a daily basis the more so now that dissemination of information is greatly enhanced by modern technology However there are no strict regulations on who can become a translator and what qualifications are required The contributors to this volume strive to find out whether translators are taught self taught or trained what the teaching or training programmes are like and how they can be improved This is a companion volume to Teaching Translation and Interpreting Challenges and Practices edited by ukasz Bogucki Cambridge Scholars Publishing 2010 It contains papers delivered at two international conferences devoted to teaching translation and interpreting organised in d Poland as well as invited contributions The authors are translation and interpreting scholars and teachers from leading Polish and Ukrainian universities

Global Trends in Translator and Interpreter Training Séverine Hubscher-Davidson, Michal Borodo, 2012-06-07 This book looks at translator and interpreter training focusing on mediation and culture in a global context It updates numerous research currents in translator and interpreter education by situating them in relation to broader curricular and technological discussions Particular attention is given to the way in which translator and interpreter training relates both to other topics on university curricula and to recent developments in the professional sphere of language mediation These include the new European standard for translation services and the ethical training of interpreters The significant impact of new technologies in translation is also studied These discussions take place in the context of an increasingly mature and sophisticated theoretical environment of translator and interpreter training research one which recognizes the implications of discourses such as constructivism and objectives oriented design for new pedagogies in the field

Handbook of Translation Studies Yves Gambier, Luc van Doorslaer, 2012-12-17 As a meaningful manifestation of how institutionalized the discipline has become the new Handbook of Translation Studies is most welcome It joins the other signs of maturation such as Summer Schools the development of academic curricula historical surveys journals book series textbooks terminologies bibliographies and encyclopedias The HTS aims at disseminating knowledge about translation and interpreting and providing easy access to a large range of topics traditions and methods to a relatively broad audience not only students who often adamantly prefer such user friendliness researchers and lecturers in Translation Studies Translation but also scholars and experts from other disciplines among which linguistics sociology history psychology In addition the HTS addresses any of those with a professional or personal interest in the problems of translation interpreting localization editing etc such as communication specialists journalists literary critics editors public servants business managers intercultural organization specialists media specialists marketing professionals Moreover The HTS offers added value First of all it is the first Handbook with this scope in Translation Studies that has both a print edition and an online version The advantages of an online version are obvious it is more flexible and accessible and in addition the entries can be regularly revised and updated The Handbook is variously searchable by article by author by subject A second benefit is the interconnection with the selection and organization principles of the online Translation Studies Bibliography TSB The taxonomy of the TSB has been partly applied to the selection of entries for the HTS Moreover many items in the reference lists are hyperlinked to the TSB where the user can find an abstract of a publication All articles between 500 and 6 000 words are written by specialists in the different subfields and are peer reviewed Last but not least the usability accessibility and flexibility of the HTS depend on the commitment of people who agree that Translation Studies does matter All users are therefore invited to share their feedback Any questions remarks and suggestions for improvement can be sent to the editorial team at hts@lessius.eu

Teaching Translation and Interpreting 3 Cay Dollerup, Vibeke Appel, 1996 Selected papers from the Third Language International Conference on Translator and Interpreter Training Capping the series of conferences on this theme in Denmark the present volume brings together a choice selection of the papers read by scholars and teachers from five continents and within all specialities in Translation Studies In combination with the two previous volumes of the same title the book offers an up to date comprehensive representative overview focusing on main issues in teaching in the relatively new field of translation There are informed and incisive discussions of subtitling interpreting and translation spanning from its historical beginnings to presentations of machine translation and predictions of the future of translation work Contributions ranging from discussions on the interplay between theory and teaching teaching literary translation introducing students to central issues in translation practice and historical and social issues in teaching translation

Translation into the Second Language Stuart Campbell, 2014-08-27 The dynamics of immigration international commerce and the postcolonial world make it inevitable that much translation is done into a second language despite the prevailing wisdom that translators should only work into their mother tongue This book is the first study to explore the phenomenon of translation into a second language in a way that will interest applied linguists translators and translation teachers and ESOL teachers working with advanced level students Rather than seeing translation into a second language as deficient output this study adopts an interlanguage framework to consider L2 translation as the product of developing competence learning to translate is seen as a special variety of second language acquisition Through carefully worked case studies separate components of translation competence are identified among them the ability to create stylistically authentic texts in English the ability to monitor and edit output and the psychological attitudes that the translator brings to the task While the case studies mainly deal with Arabic speakers undergoing translator training in Australia the conclusions will have implications for translation into a second language especially English around the world Translation into the Second Language is firmly grounded in empirical research and in this regard it serves as a stimulus and a methodological guide for further research It will be a valuable addition for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students of applied linguistics translation theory bilingualism and second language acquisition as well as those involved in teaching or practicing translation at a professional level

The Routledge Handbook of Translation, Interpreting and Bilingualism Aline Ferreira, John W. Schwieter, 2023-01-31 Translation and interpreting can be seen as two special sub types of bilingual communication The field of bilingualism from developmental cognitive and neuroscientific perspectives is highly relevant to Translation and Interpreting Studies The Routledge Handbook of Translation Interpreting and Bilingualism is the first handbook to bring together the related yet disconnected fields of bilingualism and translation and interpreting studies Edited by leading scholars and authored by a wide range of established authorities from around the world the Handbook is divided into six parts and encompasses theories and method the development of translator and interpreter competence and cognitive neuroscientific and social aspects This is the essential guide to bilingualism for advanced students and researchers of Translation and Interpreting studies and key reading on translation and interpreting for those studying and researching bilingualism

Worlds in the Making Edyta Lorek-Jezińska, Teresa Siek-Piskozub, Katarzyna Więckowska, 2006 Teaching and Testing Interpreting and Translating Valerie Pellatt, Kate Griffiths, Shao-Chuan Wu, 2010 The book presents a range of theoretical and practical approaches to the teaching of the twin professions of interpreting and translating covering a variety of language pairs All aspects of the training process are addressed from detailed word level processing to student concerns with their careers and from the setting of examinations to the standardisation of marking The articles show very clearly the strengths and needs the potential and vision of interpreter and translator training as it exists in countries around the world The experience of the authors who are all actively engaged in training interpreters and translators demonstrates the innovative practical and reflective approaches which are proving invaluable in the formation of the next generation of professional translators and interpreters While many of them are being trained in universities they are being prepared for a life in the real world of business and politics through the use of authentic texts and tools and up to date methodology

Language Facilitation and Development in Southern Africa Alet Kruger, Kim Wallmach, Marion Boers, 1998 Mapping the Research Landscape of Interpreter and Translator Education Xiangdong Li, 2024-11-29 Mapping the Research

Landscape of Interpreter and Translator Education explores research themes in interpreter and translator education based on a systematic review of more than 20 years of research in the field. The book focuses on the ten research themes on the chain of curriculum development and evaluation: specifically market needs analysis, content conceptualisation, learning needs analysis, teaching objectives, teaching beliefs, syllabus design, material development, instruction and/or effect assessment, and course evaluation. It also touches upon the other 14 research themes, for example trainer education, admissions, learner traits, thesis and research training, pre-service preparation, certification in service training, client education and translation and interpreting as a means to education. The discussion of each theme is accompanied by a synthesis of its sub-themes, typical research cases, research prospects, and suggested reading. As a guide, it supports teachers by illustrating how to combine teaching and research in university settings and offers ways to integrate research into pedagogy. This book is a go-to reference for trainers and a hands-on guide for academics, researchers, and postgraduate students specialising in translation and interpreting, curriculum development, and pedagogy research.
