Transitioning Children with Disabilities

Antonio L. Ellis, 2017-09-13 This book is an authoritative volume of scholarship through qualitative and quantitative methodologies on postsecondary transition services for a diverse readership. The editor's intended audience is composed of students with disabilities, school administrators, special education coordinators, colleges and university faculty staff and administrators among other scholars, practitioners and advocates. Readers of this volume will be educated on the postsecondary transition process and the lifelong commitment of educators who guides students with disabilities through their rigorous yet rewarding journey. This book also can be used by student personnel administrators, employers, student retention coordinators and workforce development professionals to improve the implementation of postsecondary transition services. The importance of comprehensive transition planning for students with disabilities is the impetus for bringing this collaborative effort to print. Topics in this volume highlight areas that have critical implications for children and adolescents preparation for adulthood. Contributors presents potent research regarding various topics addressing P 16 students needs and have been active practitioners in both areas transition services and disabilities as defined under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act IDEA of 2004. Ultimately this book is a collection of interrelated chapters that offer rich content and insights into current trends for individuals with disabilities who are moving through various stages of their lives.

Square Pegs and Round Holes Fred A. Bonner, Rosa M. Banda, Stella Luciana Smith, Aretha Faye Marbley, 2021

Developing alternative student development frameworks and models this groundbreaking book provides student affairs practitioners as well as faculty with illuminating perspectives and viable approaches for understanding the development of today's diverse student populations and for building the foundation for their academic success and self authorship. With the increasing number of adult working students, minoritized, multiracial, LGTBQ and first generation students this book offers readers vital insights into and ways to interrogate existing practice and develop relevant responses to the needs of these populations. Building on and critiquing the past frameworks and integrating the insights of contemporary scholarship on student development the contributors collectively put forward a robust theoretical and methodological foundation for this work using Critical Race Theory as their central frame. CRT allows chapter authors to situate race related encounters at the center of their proposed alternative framework or model and deconstruct and challenge commonly held assumptions about diverse college student development. In the tradition of CRT each author offers an alternative model or framework that can be applied to the diverse population upon which the chapter is framed prompting readers to address such questions as: Who are our college students? What set of experiences do our students bring to the higher education context? What role have their environments, contexts i.e. home, p 12, community, family, peer groups, mentors played in our student's lives? What impact have intervening variables i.e. race oppression, power had on their experiences? What strategies do they use to overcome developmental obstacles? How do they define success and how they know they have achieved it? By laying bare the experiences of these diverse college students that inform this volume's alternative frameworks this book contests that notion that they constitute square pegs that must fit into the round holes of traditional frameworks Resources in Education, 1990
