Student Perceptions In The Classroom:

Student Perceptions in the Classroom Dale H. Schunk, Judith L. Meece, 2012-10-12 This book's two primary objectives are to present theory and research on the role of learners' achievement-related perceptions in educational contexts and to discuss the implications of this research for educational practices. Although contributors share the view that students' perceptions exert important effects in achievement settings, they differ in diverse ways including their theoretical orientation, their choice of research methodology, the perceptions they believe are of primary importance, and the antecedents and consequences of these perceptions. They discuss the current status of their ideas and provide a forward look at research and practice.

Student Feedback on Teaching in Schools Wolfram Rollett, Hannah Bijlsma, Sebastian Röhl, 2021-08-12 This open access book provides a comprehensive and informative overview of the current state of research about student perceptions of and student feedback on teaching. After presentation of a new student feedback process model, evidence concerning the validity and reliability of student perceptions of teaching quality is discussed. This is followed by an overview of empirical research on the effects of student feedback on teachers and instruction in different contexts, as well as on factors promoting the successful implementation of feedback in schools. In summary, the findings emphasize that student perceptions of teaching quality can be a valid and reliable source of feedback for teachers. The effectiveness of student feedback on teaching is significantly related to its use in formative settings and to a positive feedback culture within schools. In addition, it is argued that the effectiveness of student feedback depends very much on the support for teachers when making use of the feedback. As this literature review impressively documents, teachers in their work and ultimately students in their learning can benefit substantially from student feedback on teaching in schools. This book reviews what we know about student feedback to teachers. It is detailed and it is a pleasure to read. To have these chapters in one place and from those most up to date with the research literature and doing the research is a gift. John Hattie Student Perceptions of Rules for Classroom Interaction H. Paul LeBlanc, 3rd, 1997-08 Burgoon's expectancy violation model posits that nonverbal rule violations will be evaluated according to the perceptions toward the violator and the behavior itself. However, the violator may have perceptions regarding the appropriateness of the rule. This study measured the perceptions of high school students regarding the rules for classroom interaction. It is believed that the rules for classroom interaction are rules which have been learned through the process of socialization and enculturation into the classroom setting throughout students' careers. These rules should be well known by all students by the time they reach tenth grade, the grade being investigated. A survey questionnaire was developed through a pilot study and was distributed to 244 students through the English classes of three East Baton Rouge parish high schools. The high schools were chosen by relative drop-out rate. Students were grouped by sex, race, and age to measure differences in attitude by characteristics of potential dropouts.

The study found that males have more negative attitudes toward compliance with laziness rules and the importance of those laziness rules than females. The study also found that Black students have a more positive attitudes regarding the importance of distraction laziness and respectfulness rules than non Black students. Implications regarding the attitudes toward classroom rules are discussed.

Student Perceptions of Engagement and the Relationship to Student Perceptions of Teacher in the Visual Art Classroom Kirby Brooks Meng, 2020. Lack of student engagement in high schools is a concerning factor in education. Low levels of engagement can lead to student apathy, academic challenges, disruptive behavior, and a higher dropout rate. The purpose of this research was to examine the relationship between high school students' perceptions of engagement and students' perceptions of the teacher in the visual art classroom. The researcher used social constructivism as a lens through which to explore this topic. The theory of constructivism focuses on active exploration and learning about ideas of personal significance where the teacher plays an essential supportive and guiding role in student learning. The sample for this research was 68 high school students in a large metropolitan school district in Georgia who were enrolled in Comprehensive Art I. The researcher used a survey to collect students' perceptions of their cognitive, emotional, and behavioral engagement in the art classroom as well as perceptions of their teacher. Data from this nonexperimental cross-sectional predictive study was analyzed using multiple linear regression where the dependent variable is teacher perception and the independent variables are cognitive, emotional, and behavioral engagement. Key findings include insight on the relationship of student levels of engagement to perceptions of the teacher in the art classroom.

The current exploratory descriptive case study was designed to gain an understanding of teacher behaviors that promote student engagement in the school setting from the perspective of both students and teachers. The purpose of this mixed methods case study was to gain an understanding of what teachers do to engage students in learning and to explore how students perceive these efforts based on their own notion of engagement. Based on the literature, the study sought to explore the application aspects of the meta-construct of student engagement. Of particular interest was the teacher-student relationship in creating a culture of learning to establish a sense of flow in the classroom setting. Three experienced teachers were involved in the study which implicated the need for curriculum expertise as a foundation for effective student engagement in tandem with the willingness to develop respectful student-teacher relationships Student input garnered the importance of autonomy in learning and connectedness with the learning environment based on student teacher relationships

Teacher and Student Perceptions of Student Engagement in a 9th Grade Classroom Kathryn Field,2018 Student engagement is integral to the process of learning Teacher moves or the behaviors that teachers enact in the process of teaching have been shown to influence students engagement Research indicates that students are more likely to engage in learning when they believe their teacher supports student autonomy competence and relatedness Less is known about the precise types of moves that engender these feelings in students and how teacher student relationships play a unique role in student engagement In this qualitative case study I studied teacher and student perceptions of the engagement process and teacher student relationships in a naturally occurring ninth grade classroom Findings support previous self determination literature on how student engagement unfolds in the classroom However the data indicate that the current definitions of teacher moves may be too limited to capture the full range of actions that inspire feelings of autonomy competence relatedness in students Of particular importance teacher moves that inhibited feelings of competence included moves associated with under stimulation for students The data from this study also provide evidence for a more nuanced conceptualization of the role that teacher student relationship building plays in the process of student engagement When discussing the teacher s effect on their engagement some students discussed relatedness moves more frequently than others indicating a personality type that was more attune to noting the role of teacher student relationships in the students engagement Additionally when there were differences between the teacher and students perceptions of the teachers influence on student engagement students frequently commented on teacher student relationship building student achievement end of course grades and the predictor variable was student perception as measured by the BLS Results indicate that there is no relationship between high and low achievers and their perceptions of the flipped classroom as well as no relationship between student perception and student achievement in the flipped classroom These findings support empirical evidence that the flipped classroom may not be advisable for general education courses Implications for practice and recommendations for future studies are included in this study Middle School Classrooms Tonya R. Student Perceptions In The Classroom Introduction

In the digital age, access to information has become easier than ever before. The ability to download Student Perceptions In The Classroom has revolutionized the way we consume written content. Whether you are a student looking for course material, an avid reader searching for your next favorite book, or a professional seeking research papers, the option to download Student Perceptions In The Classroom has opened up a world of possibilities. Downloading Student Perceptions In The Classroom provides numerous advantages over physical copies of books and documents. Firstly, it is incredibly convenient. Gone are the days of carrying around heavy textbooks or bulky folders filled with papers. With the click of a button, you can gain immediate access to valuable resources on any device. This convenience allows for efficient studying, researching, and reading on the go. Moreover, the cost-effective nature of downloading Student Perceptions In The Classroom has democratized knowledge. Traditional books and academic journals can be expensive, making it difficult for individuals with limited financial resources to access information. By offering free PDF downloads, publishers and authors are enabling a wider audience to benefit from their work. This inclusivity promotes equal opportunities for learning and personal growth. There are numerous websites and platforms where individuals can download Student Perceptions In The Classroom. These websites range from academic databases offering research papers and journals to online libraries with an expansive collection of books from various genres. Many authors and publishers also upload their work to specific websites, granting readers access to their content without any charge. These platforms not only provide access to existing literature but also serve as an excellent platform for undiscovered authors to share their work with the world. However, it is essential to be cautious while downloading Student Perceptions In The Classroom. Some websites may offer pirated or illegally obtained copies of copyrighted material. Engaging in such activities not only violates copyright laws but also undermines the efforts of authors, publishers, and researchers. To ensure ethical downloading, it is advisable to utilize reputable websites that prioritize the legal distribution of content. When downloading Student Perceptions In The Classroom, users should also consider the potential security risks associated with online platforms. Malicious actors may exploit vulnerabilities in unprotected websites to distribute malware or steal personal information. To protect themselves, individuals should ensure their devices have reliable antivirus software installed and validate the legitimacy of the websites they are downloading from.

In conclusion, the ability to download Student Perceptions In The Classroom has transformed the way we access information. With the convenience, cost-effectiveness, and accessibility it offers, free PDF downloads have become a popular choice for students, researchers, and book lovers worldwide. However, it is crucial to engage in ethical downloading practices and prioritize personal security when utilizing online platforms. By doing so, individuals can make the most of the vast array of free PDF resources available and embark on a journey of continuous learning and intellectual growth.
