Llew von Essen
Murray and Roberts

Introduction

I trust that you, like me, are thrilled to be living in what must be considered the most exciting, dynamic and challenging era of this century.

Intercultural communication, therefore, is the act of communication when the message sender is from one culture and the message receiver is from another culture. Successful intercultural communication is the establishment and sharing of common meanings in the sender-receiver. (Meanings are in people, not in messages). This process is obviously complicated and influenced by cultural factors, such as those mentioned above, not to mention language differences and patterns of thinking.

Cultural factor awareness

For successful communication across cultures, there should be an awareness of cultural factors which affect communication in both our own culture and the culture of others. Cultural factors should be looked at for similarities and differences. The differences, thus isolated, would no doubt define problem areas in communicating, and the similarities should aid the successful intercultural communications. Absolute
