Women Work And Computerization:

Women, Work and Computerization Ellen Balka, Richard Smith, 2013-11-11 ELLENBALKA Simon Fraser University ebalka Sfu ca 1 INTRODUCTION In developing the call for papers for the 7th International Federation of Information Processors IFIP Women Work and Computerization Conference we sought to cast our net widely We wanted to encourage presenters to think broadly about women work and computerization Towards this end the programme committee developed a call for papers that in its final form requested paper submissions around four related themes These are 1 Setting the Course Taking Stock of Where We Are and Where We re Going 2 Charting Undiscovered Terrain Creating Models Tools and Theories 3 Navigating the Unknown Sex Time Space and Place and 4 Taking the Helm Education and Pedagogy Our overall conference theme Charting a Course to the Future was inspired in part by Vancouver s geography which is both coastal and mountainous As such navigation plays an important part in the lives of many as we seek to enjoy our environs In addition as the first Women Work and Computerization conference of the new millennium we hoped to encourage the broad community of scholars that has made past Women Work and Computerization conferences a success to actively engage in imagining and working towards a better future for women in relation to computers The contributions to this volume are both a reflection of the hard work undertaken by many to improve the situation of women in relation to computerization and a testament to how much work is yet to be done

Women, Work and Computerization A. Frances Grundy, 1997-05-20 This volume considers the submissions to the 6th International IFIP TC 9 WG 9 1 Conference on Women Work and Computerization WWC 97 The conference provides an interdisciplinary forum for researchers practitioners and users in the field of information technology In this book the authors discuss how different areas of society are being transformed by computer technology but with particular emphasis on changes in women s work and life and how these have come about Such transformations include the transitions from women s traditional work to work based on modern technology from communicating within personal communities to communicating within virtual communities from traditional job gendering to new perspectives on who does what

Women, Work, and Computerization Alison Adam, 1994 Paperback An international acknowledgement of the problems existing in the area of gender and computing in the 1990s is provided by this publication The need to produce strategies and policies to rectify the situation is highlighted Papers both reporting original empirical research and postulating interesting theoretical perspectives are structured around five parallel themes Community Communications and Information Networks Information Technology IT Flexibility and Restructuring Information Systems Design and User Centred Perspectives Education Training and Learning and Feminist Theoretical Perspectives on Power Knowledge and Technology

Women, Work, and Computerization Inger V. Eriksson, B. A. Kitchenham, Kea Tjeldens, 1991 This volume considers the impact of information technology on women s employment and education by examining two main themes the effect of women s perspectives on systems analysis and design and the factors which lead to the under representation of women in the computer profession and in particular to the low numbers of female students of computer science and informatics Statistics on participation of women in the computer industry are included along with theories and empirical findings on participatory design of office systems and case studies on the impact of information technology on gendered division of labour Papers suggesting ways of overcoming the problems faced both by women users of computer systems and by women entering the computing profession complete the volume Women, Work, and Computerization Kea Tjeldens,1989 The implications of computerization in the workplace benefits and problems are the themes of this book with the emphasis firmly placed on women's points of view Computerization in the office and in manufacturing are both discussed the specific topics including organizational change training telework and Third World problems Women, Work and Computerization, "remote Work" Monica Elling,1984 Women, Work, and Computerization IFIP WG 9.1,1985 Conference report on the impact of computerization on the working conditions of the woman worker discusses skill levels employment opportunity office automation telework etc considers the sexual division of labour in the electronics industry participation in systems design work load mental stress and employees attitudes reviews vocational training and educational opportunity reports on the situation in Austria Denmark Finland France Norway and Sweden References Women, Work and Computerization Working Conference (1st:Italy:1984),1985 Women, Work and Computerization Agneta Olerup,1985 Computer Engineering: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools and Applications Management Association, Information Resources,2011-12-31 This reference is a broad multi volume collection of the best recent works published under the umbrella of computer engineering including perspectives on the fundamental aspects tools and technologies methods and design applications managerial impact social behavioral perspectives critical issues and emerging trends in the field Provided by publisher Information Technology and Women's Lives ,1996 Proceedings of the 19th Information Systems Research Seminar in Scandinavia Bo Dahlbom,1996 The Growing Use of Computers ,1991 Computers, Phones, and the Internet Robert Kraut,Malcolm Brynin,Sara Kiesler,2006-07-06 During the past decade technology has become more pervasive encroaching more and more on our lives Computers cell phones and the internet have an enormous influence not only on how we function at work but also on how we communicate and interact outside the office Researchers have been documenting the effect that these types of technology have on individuals families and other social groups Their work addresses questions that relate to how people use computers cell phones and the internet how they integrate their use of new technology into daily routines and how family function social relationships education and socialization are changing as a result This research is being conducted in a number of countries by scientists from a variety of disciplines who publish in very different places The result is that it is difficult for researchers and students to get a current and coherent view of the research literature This book brings together the leading researchers currently investigating the impact of information and communication technology outside of the workplace Its goal is to develop a consolidated view of what we collectively know in this fast changing area to evaluate approaches to data collection and analysis and to identify future directions for research. The book will appeal to professionals and students in social psychology, human technology interaction, sociology, and communication.

Gendered Practices Boel Berner, 1997. Technology has the power to shape lives, identities, and futures. Experiences of technology vary, however, between women and men. Gender profoundly influences how technology is created, used, and changed. The essays in this book discuss gendered practices in a wide range of technologies and technical milieus. Various sociotechnical arenas where definitions of masculinity and femininity are constituted, enacted, or put on display are explored: work places, schools, museums, and homes. The authors examine feminist political practices to influence technical change, as well as recent efforts to reconceptualize the relationships between gender and technology.

Pathways for Women in the Sciences Paula M. Rayman, Belle Brett, 1993. The Pathways for Women in the Sciences Project is a longitudinal research effort which addresses the issue of women's participation and persistence in science.

Computer Chips and Paper Clips: without special title National Research Council (U.S.). Committee on Women's Employment and Related Social Issues. Panel on Technology and Women's Employment, Heidi I. Hartmann, 1986. Reviews the development and implementation of new information technologies in several clerical occupations and sectors in order to identify its positive and negative consequences for women's employment. Considers the likely size, incidence, nature, and timing of these effects and looks at the impact of employers' decisions to adopt and implement new technologies on these processes. Recommends policies that can alleviate negative effects and improve women's employment opportunities while producing a more humane work environment.

Women at Work II Rosalind Merl Schwartz, Judith Richlin-Klonsky, 1989. New Books on Women and Feminism, 1991.

Women, Work, and Technology University of Connecticut. Project on Women and Technology, 1987. Examines the ideological, social, and economic forces that together with technology influence the lives of women.
