The African American Experience in Crime Fiction Robert E. Crafton, 2015-06-08 An immensely popular genre crime fiction has only in recent years been engaged significantly by African American authors Historically the racist stereotypes often central to crime fiction and the socially conservative nature of the genre presented problems for writing the black experience and the tropes of justice and restoration of social order have not resonated with authors who saw social justice as a work in progress Some African American authors did take up the challenge Pauline Hopkins Rudolph Fisher and Chester Himes led the way in the first half of the 20th century followed by Ishmael Reed's anti-detective novels in the 1970s Since the 1990s Walter Mosley Colson Whitehead and Stephen L Carter have written detective fiction focusing on questions of constitutional law civil rights biological and medical issues education popular culture the criminal justice system and matters of social justice From Hopkins's Hagar's Daughter published in 1901 to Hime's hardboiled Harlem Detective series to Carter's patrician world of the black bourgeoisie these authors provide a means of examining literary and social constructions of the African American experience Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

The Subject of Race in American Science Fiction Sharon DeGraw, 2006-12-19 While the connections between science fiction and race have largely been neglected by scholars racial identity is a key element of the subjectivity constructed in American SF In his Mars series Edgar Rice Burroughs primarily supported essentialist constructions of racial identity but also included a few elements of racial egalitarianism Writing in the 1930s George S Schuyler revised Burroughs normative SF triangle of white author white audience and white protagonist and promoted an individualistic highly variable concept of race instead While both Burroughs and Schuyler wrote SF focusing on racial identity the largely separate genres of science fiction and African American literature prevented the similarities between the two authors from being adequately acknowledged and explored Beginning in the 1960s Samuel R Delany more fully joined SF and African American literature Delany expands on Schuyler's racial constructionist approach to identity including gender and sexuality in addition to race Critically intertwining the genres of SF and African American literature allows a critique of the racism in the science fiction and a more accurate and positive portrayal of the scientific connections in the African American literature Connecting the popular fiction of Burroughs the controversial career of Schuyler and the postmodern texts of Delany illuminates a gradual change from a stable essentialist construction of racial identity at the turn of the century to the variable social construction of poststructuralist subjectivity today
