Disciplinary Discourses Ken Hyland,2000 Applied Linguistics and Language Study General Editor Christopher N Candlin Chair Professor of Applied Linguistics Centre for English Language Education Communication Research Department of English City University of Hong Kong Hong Kong Since it was first established in the 1970 s the Applied Linguistics and Language Study series has become a major force in the study of practical problems in human communication and language education Drawing extensively on empirical research and theoretical work in linguistics sociology psychology and education the series explores key issues in language acquisition and language use Disciplinary Discourses Social Interactions in Academic Writing presents a series of innovative studies focusing on eight disciplines and a variety of key genres to examine the relationships between the cultures of academic communities and their discursal practices It proposes a framework to account for the interactions between writers and their readers in published academic writing draws clear teaching suggestions and offers detailed methodological principles and suggestions to support further research Drawing on discourse analysis corpus linguistics and the voices of professional insiders Ken Hyland explores how academics use language to organise their professional lives carry out intellectual tasks and reach agreement on what will count as knowledge Through its focus on the features of key genres this book shows what close textual analyses can reveal about the social practices and institutional ideologies of different academic communities and at the same time provides a clear basis for further research The theoretical and descriptive accounts have strong practical implications for the understanding of academic writing and disciplinary communities It will therefore be of great interest to teachers and students of academic writing English for Specific Purposes and discourse analysis more generally Ken Hyland is an Associate Professor in the Department of English City University of Hong Kong

Constructing Interpersonality Rosa Lorés Sanz,Pilar Mur-Dueñas,Enrique Lafuente-Millán,2010 The view that academic discourse is by definition impersonal has long been superseded. It seems unquestionable now that the interpersonal component of texts that is the ways in which the writers project themselves and their audience in the discourse is an essential factor determining the success of scholarly communication and has become a fundamental issue in the field of English for Academic Purposes (EAP). Interpersonality is the key issue around which the articles in this edited book focus on. The eighteen contributions included in this volume provide a wide exploratory view of the many academic genres in which interpersonal is manifested and the various analytical approaches from which the textual manifestation of that interpersonal can be studied. The varied origin of the contributors is also representative of the global interest that the issue of interpersonal arouses in the field of academic discourse analysis at an international level. The present volume constitutes a highly valuable tool for applied linguists and discourse analysts with an interest in EAP as well as for students, instructors and language teachers interested in academic discourse. The book may also be of interest to other agents intervening in the research publication process such as translators, proofreaders, reviewers and editors.

Studies in Honour of Neil McLaren, 2008 Colporu! Gregory James, 2000 Text & Talk Srikant Sarangi, 2007 Southern African Linguistics and Applied Language Studies, 2008 Reading Strategies and Practices Robert J. Tierney, John E. Readence, 2000. This book is a compendium of strategies; it is not a description of a single approach nor is it intended to be eclectic. The inclusion of a strategy should not be perceived as our endorsement of that strategy. There are some strategies that we view as problematic; there are others about which we disagree.

Unity and Diversity in Language Use British Association for Applied Linguistics. Meeting, Kristyan Spelman Miller, 2002. The papers in this collection reflect the diversity of approach within the field of applied linguistics at the start of the 21st century. Each paper prompts critical reflection on tensions within the discipline between stability and change, consensus and controversy, similarity and variation.

Transcultural Studies, 2005 Communicating Rights Frances Rock, 2007-11-13. Organisations which act on behalf of society are expected to act fairly, explaining themselves and their procedures to people they encounter. For the police, explanation is routine and repetitive. It is also extremely powerful. Rights Communication provides an unusual opportunity to observe different speakers and writers explaining the same texts in their own words in British police stations. Data analyses cast explanation not as a skill but a technology, a rich resource for making meaning, representing identities and organising social participation.

Best Practices in Adolescent Literacy Instruction, First Edition Kathleen A. Hinchman, Heather K. Sheridan-Thomas, 2008-04-15. Covering everything from day to day learning activities to schoolwide goals, this engaging book reviews key topics in literacy instruction for grades 5-12 and provides research-based recommendations for practice. Leading scholars present culturally responsive strategies for motivating adolescents using multiple texts and digital media, integrating literacy instruction with science, social studies and math, and teaching English language learners and struggling readers. Vivid case studies, thoughtful discussion questions and activities in each chapter and detailed ideas for program and lesson planning make this an indispensable classroom resource and professional
