In the Mirror of Memory Janet Gyatso, 1992-01-01 This book studies the diverse array of species of memory in Buddhism Contributors focus on a particular school group of texts terms or practices and identify a considerable range of types of mnemonic faculties in Buddhism Included are discussions of Buddhist teaching meditation visualization prayer commemoration of the Buddha dharma practice the use of mnemonic lists to condense lengthy scriptures and the purported recollection of infinite previous lives that immediately preceded Sakyamuni's attainment of Buddhahood Even enlightened awareness itself is said by some Buddhist schools to consist in a mnemonic engagement with reality as such The authors explore Buddhist views on mundane acts of memory such as recognizing reminding memorizing and storing data as well as special types of memory that are cultivated in religious practice One of the most striking discoveries is that perception is intimately related to certain types of memory Several essays investigate if and if so how meditative mindfulness and recollection of the past both of which can be designated by the term smṛti are connected within the Buddhist tradition The question of whether recollection of the past can be explained without violating the foundational Buddhist notions of radical impermanence and no self is addressed by several of the contributing scholars Among the primary sources for the studies in this volume are the northern and southern Abhidharma literature the Māhāvastu Pāli and Mahāvastu sutras works of the Buddhist logicians Yogācāra materials the Tibetan Great Perfection Rdzogschen tradition and Indian and Tibetan commentarial works Affinities of Buddhist views on memory with those found in Western phenomenology semiology psychology and history of religions are considered as well

Tibetan Frontier Families Barbara Nimri Aziz, 1978. Anthropological study of the inhabitants of Dingri, a village on the Tibet-Nepal border. Reflections in a Mirror Charlie Singer, 2011-09-07. This distillation of important doctrines of Tibetan Buddhism includes a presentation of the four reflections that change the mind: bodhicitta, emptiness, the nature of mind, and Dzogchen. Also explores the nature of human embodiment and the apparitional nature of the world, with Buddha nature as the common thread. A thought-provoking study. This certainly is in the tradition of the wise ones. From the Foreword by Ven. Lama Pema Wangdak. The Tantric Distinction Jeffrey Hopkins, 2013-10-23. The ideas, concepts, and methods of various religions must be tried on for size; must be lifted above museum displays; must be confronted and allowed to resonate with one's own character. It is in this spirit that I present here a personalized account of central Buddhist practices from the author's preface. Widely recognized as one of the West's leading scholars of Tibetan Buddhism, Professor Jeffrey Hopkins is renowned for his textual translations and original scholarship. For ten years he served as the principal English translator for His Holiness the Dalai Lama. The Tantric Distinction is his effort to make accessible the complexities of this highly sophisticated philosophy by sharing his personal individual experience with Buddhist thought and practice. It lays out the entire Buddhist path as a living experience.
