Some Reasons Why:

Some Reasons why I Am a Spiritualist Evelyn P. Goodsell, 1861 Reasons of One's Own Marc Slors, 2017-11-28
Practical reasoning in contemporary Western societies is characterised by an unprecedented degree of idiosyncrasy and demands of personal authenticity. This has resulted from the decline of traditional moral authorities, the rise of individualistic lifestyles, increasing multiculturalism and rapid technological advance. These developments have given rise to reflection on the notion of reasons of one's own, an examination of the intelligibility of reasons that are closely connected to a particular agent and recognised as such by others, although not shared by them. Problems addressed by the contributors include: How to account for the cognitive overtones in moral and motivational language given the apparent agent relativity of reasons; How to retain the agent relativity of reasons for action given that they require articulation through a language shared by the community; and how to account for the practical rationality required for co-operation between persons in view of the idiosyncrasy of a person's motivating reasons. In dealing with these issues, this book presents a range of investigative essays on the concept of reasons of one's own by leading authors from all relevant philosophical areas of expertise. The Reason why Robert Kemp Philp, 1860 Creating a Shared Morality Heather Salazar, 2021-10-18
In Creating a Shared Morality Heather Salazar develops a consistent and plausible account of ethical constructivism that rivals the traditional metaethical theories of realism and subjectivism without lapsing into subjectivism as do previous constructivist attempts. Salazar's Enlightenment argues that all people have moral obligations and that if they reflect well they will naturally come to care about others as extensions of themselves. Enlightenment resolves difficulties within constructivism, builds bridges between the two traditional Western views of metaethics and employs concepts from Eastern Buddhist philosophy. It embraces universal morality while elevating the importance of autonomy, diversity and connectedness. Constructivist enlightenment entails understanding the interdependence of people on others such that we are all co-responsible for the world in which we live.
