Uniform Accountancy Act:

Uniform Accountancy Act and Uniform Accountancy Act Rules American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, National Association of State Boards of Accountancy, 1997 Uniform Accountancy Act, 2004 Uniform Accountancy Act and Uniform Accountancy Act Rules, 1997 An Assessment of Recent Changes in the Uniform Accountancy Act Gary J. Colbert, 1999 The Uniform Accountancy Act UAA is the product of a joint effort by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy It is intended to serve as a model for public accountancy legislation by the individual states and is designed to protect the public interest promote high professional standards and advance the goal of uniformity across jurisdictions In response to growing dissatisfaction with the current status of professional accountancy regulation the UAA was substantially revised in 1998 Based on existing rationales for governmental involvement in occupational licensing we assess whether selected changes reflected in the revised UAA are consistent with its stated public interest objective We conclude that many but not all of these changes are in the public interest Based on an economic theory of regulation the paper also examines the likelihood that the states will adopt the proposed changes Because the CPA profession is well positioned to significantly influence accountancy regulations we hypothesize that the UAA changes which are in the best interest of existing members of the profession will tend to be adopted more quickly and more pervasively Proposed Uniform Accountancy Act American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.
