Nineteenth-Century Female Poisoners V. Nagy, 2015-02-18 Nineteenth Century Female Poisoners investigates the Essex poisoning trials of 1846 to 1851 where three women were charged with using arsenic to kill children their husbands and brothers Using newspapers archival sources including petitions and witness depositions and records from parliamentary debates the focus is not on whether the women were guilty or innocent but rather on what English society during this period made of their trials and what stereotypes and stock stories were used to describe women who used arsenic to kill All three women were initially presented as bad women but as the book illustrates there was no clear consensus on what exactly constituted bad womanhood Law, Crime and Deviance since 1700 David Nash, Anne-Marie Kilday, 2016-11-17 CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title 2017 Law Crime and Deviance since 1700 explores the potential for the micro study approach to the history of crime and legal history A selection of in depth narrative micro studies are featured to illustrate specific issues associated with the theme of crime and the law in historical context The methodology used unpacks the wider historiographical and contextual issues related to each thematic area and facilitates discussion of the wider implications for the history of crime and social relations The case studies in the volume cover a range of incidents relating to crime law and deviant behaviour since 1700 from policing vice in Victorian London to chain gang narratives from the southern United States The book concludes by demonstrating how these narratives can be brought together to produce a more nuanced history of the area and suggests avenues for future research and study Debauched, Desperate, Deranged Carolyn A. Conley, 2020-10-31 Contemporary studies have concluded that women are far less likely to kill than men and that when women do kill they do so within the family Debauched Desperate Deranged Women Who Killed London 1674 1913 examines the evolution of this pattern in the over 1400 trials in which women were prosecuted for homicide in London from the late seventeenth century until just before the First World War Which deaths were considered homicides and in what circumstances women were culpable illustrates profound changes in the prevailing assumptions about women The outcomes of trials and the portrayals of these women in the press illuminate changes in perceptions of women s status and their physical and mental limitations Debauched Desperate Deranged breaks new ground in existing studies of gender and homicide using a long time frame to discern which trends are brief anomalies and which represent significant change or continuity Debauched Desperate Deranged is the first empirical quantitatively as well as qualitatively based study of women and homicide from the seventeenth century to the twentieth It presents new and significant conclusions on changing incidence of maternal homicides and the remarkable constancy of spousal homicides Murder and Moral Decay in Victorian Popular Literature Beth Kalikoff,1986 Beyond Deviant Damsels Anne-Marie Kilday,David Nash,2023 Beyond Deviant Damsels offers a new interpretation of women s criminality in the nineteenth century countering assumptions that women commit crime in highly gendered ways and questioning the value of using stereotypes to analyse criminality an approach that marginalises the importance of circumstances and individual choice Gender and the Representation of Evil Lynne Fallwell,Keira V. Williams,2016-07-28 This edited collection examines gendered representations of evil in history the arts and literature Scholars often explore the relationships between gender sex and violence through theories of inequality violence against women and female victimization but what happens when women are the perpetrators of violent or harmful behavior How do we define evil What makes evil men seem different from evil women When women commit acts of violence or harmful behavior how are they represented differently from men How do perceptions of class race and age influence these representations How have these representations changed over time and why What purposes have gendered representations of evil served in culture and history What is the relationship between gender punishment of evil behavior and equality Murder at Smutty Nose Edmund Lester Pearson,1926 Murder in Victorian Scotland Douglas MacGowan,1999 Examining the life and 1857 trial of Madeleine Smith accused of poisoning an undesired suitor this book uses analyses of her correspondence with the victim Her trial testimony reveals much about Victorian society Scottish law and the woman The Victorian Illusion Edward Herbert Dance,1928 Murder Files R.
