Women and Sex Tourism Landscapes Erin Sanders-McDonagh, 2016-08-12 Sexual spaces normally inhabited by mostly female sex workers are understood as masculine spaces and positioned for and around male consumers However red light zones and public sex performances in both Thailand and Holland are being explored and visually consumed by female tourists in significant numbers Their presence in red light districts and sexual venues is at odds with the ways in which sexual spaces have normally been positioned Woman and Sex Tourism Landscapes explores female tourists interactions with highly sexualized spaces and places in two very different contexts the Netherlands and Thailand Addressing this incongruence this text explores the ways in which these spaces are constructed and examines the different relations that govern the management of and female tourist interactions with these liminal sexual zones Ethnographic data collected in both countries suggests that far from being male centred spaces the red light districts and associated sexual entertainment venues are very much open to female tourists Drawing on this research the author argues that some women are indeed interested in exploring sexualized zones challenging assumptions about women s involvements with sexual space Thinking specifically about the visual nature of women s sexualized experiences the analysis draws on a range of different theoretical understandings that address power privilege and the gaze An important contribution to a range of debates this book will appeal to students and researchers in tourism geography sociology gender studies and cultural theory

Sex In The Head Linda R. Williams, 2016-07-01 In Sex in the Head Linda Ruth Williams uses psychoanalysis and recent feminist film theory to analyze a network of ideas which link looking with sexuality and difference in the work of a writer who disavowed yet covertly enjoyed the pleasures and power of vision The book is a departure from the long history of feminist readings of Lawrence in that it discusses his engagement with theories of the gaze and its cultural forms cinema photography painting and the visual dynamics and metaphors of literary texts as a way of thinking through gender It shows him arguing on the one hand against the evils of cinema and visual sex while relishing through the eyes of women the moving spectacle of those male bodies which populate the pages of his books It also questions what it is about the work of such an adamant cinephobe which has made it so thoroughly adaptable for film and television

Power and the Social Sallie Westwood, 2002 In examining the ways in which power has been theorised from Hobbes to Giddens this invaluable introductory text analyzes how these theories have been applied and provides a clear and imaginative account of power and power relations Monthly Bulletin International Railway Congress Association,1909 Bulletin of the International Railway Congress Association International Railway Congress Association,1909 Bulletin of the International Railway Congress Association [English Edition] International Railway Congress Association,1909 Gender and Nonverbal Behavior C. Mayo,N. M. Henley,2012-12-06 This book addresses two lively and active research communities those concerned with issues of gender and those dealing with nonverbal behavior The wide range of professional and popular interest in both these topics convinced us that presentations of current work by researchers who bring these two areas of research together would prove stimulating These presentations not only address the state of current work on gender and nonverbal behavior but also suggest new avenues of investigation for those interested primarily in either topic In other words the questions that nonverbal communication researchers address when considering gender bring new directions to gender related research and a like effect can be expected when the questions raised in gender studies are applied to research in nonverbal behavior Dispersion of ideas may take another form as well Both gender and nonverbal behavior research are notably interdisciplinary Perhaps because of their pervasive nature both topics have attracted the attention of a diversity of scholars Most of the contributions in the present volume are by psychologists but their intended audience is broad Linguists sociologists and anthropologists are among those who share similar research interests Moreover the ideas presented here are of interest to practitioners as well as scholars From corporations to clinics people are interested in the subtle expression and negotiation of sex roles through non verbal communication Bulletin of the International Railway Association International Railway Association,1909

Gender, Interaction, and Inequality Cecilia L. Ridgeway,2013-03-09 Causal explanations are essential for theory building In focusing on causal mechanisms rather than descriptive effects the goal of this volume is to increase our theoretical understanding of the way gender operates in interaction Theoretical analyses of gender s effects in interaction in turn are necessary to understand how such effects might be implicated with individual level and social structural level processes in the larger system of gender inequality Despite other differences the contributors to this book all take what might be loosely called a microstructural approach to gender and interaction All agree that individuals come to interaction with certain common socially created beliefs cultural meanings experiences and social rules These include stereotypes about gendered activities and skills beliefs about the status value of gender rules for interacting in certain settings and so on However as individuals apply these beliefs and rules to the specific contingent events of interaction they combine and reshape their implications in distinctive ways that are particular to the encounter As a result individuals actively construct their social relations in the encounter through their interaction The patterns of relations that develop are not completely determined or scripted in advance by the beliefs and rules of the larger society Consequently there is a reciprocal causal relationship between constructed patterns of interaction and larger social structural forms The constructed patterns of social relations among a set of interactants can be thought of as micro level social structures or more simply microstructures
