Walden Henry David Thoreau, 2010-08 In July 1845 Henry David Thoreau built a small cottage in the woods near Walden Pond Massachusetts During the two years spend there he began to write Walden his most important work a chronicle of his communion with nature that became one of the most influential books in Western literature Henry David Thoreau

Henry David Thoreau, 1970 The Author's Effects Nicola J. Watson, 2020 A fascinating account of the emergence of the writer s house museum over the course of the nineteenth century in Britain Europe and North America It considers the museum as a cultural form and asks why it appeared and how it has constructed authorial afterlife for readers individually and collectively Work Time Regulation as Sustainable Full Employment Strategy Robert LaJeunesse, 2009-03-25 Robert LaJeunesse looks beyond the 20th century arguments for shortening the work week He writes a careful convincing critique of traditional full employment policies in advocacy of an alternative macroeconomic paradigm With an emphasis on greater socioeconomic participation the author proposes a policy of work time regulation that is not only appropriate for a 21st century post industrial economy but speaks to concerns about balancing work and family environmental sustainability stabilizing incomes and prices and social and economic well being Through its unique conceptualization of employment relations as a social effort bargain this book proposes that governments can achieve egalitarian and sustainable macroeconomic objectives by regulating work hours Equally important to achieving sustainable full employment and price stability work time regulation offers the capability for citizens living in an age of abundance to define themselves as something other than paid employees Work time reform represents a first step in a process of enlightenment in which workers will create an identity through the whole of their relationships at work home community and at play There is certainly a role for government in fostering the pursuit of loftier ideals subsequent to a redistribution of work time but the first precondition for enhanced human development is greater socioeconomic participation which means more paid work for some and less for others In addition to students and researchers in economics sociology and political science this book will be of interest to policy makers policy analysts labour unionists environmentalists and other social reformers Reflections of a Setting Sun Michael Barbato, 2009 National Union Catalog , 1978 Walden and Other Writings/ Henry David Thoreau ; Introduced by Nat Hentoff Henry David Thoreau, 1970 Architecture Martin van der Linden, 2021-03-12 The question of what architecture is answered in this book with one sentence Architecture is space created for human activities The basic need to find food and water places these activities within a larger spatial field Humans have learned and found ways to adjust to the various contextual difficulties that they faced as they roamed the earth Thus rather than adapting humans have always tried to change the context to their activities Humanity has looked at the context not merely as a limitation but rather as a spatial situation filled with opportunities that allows through intellectual interaction to change these limitations Thus humanity has created within the world their own contextual bubble that firmly stands against the larger context it is set in

The key notion of the book is that architecture is space carved out of and against the context and that this process is deterministic

Food Literacy Helen Vidgen, 2016-04-14 Globally the food system and the relationship of the individual to that system continues to change and grow in complexity Eating is an everyday event that is part of everyone's lives There are many commentaries on the nature of these changes to what where and how we eat and their socio cultural environmental educational economic and health consequences Among this discussion the term food literacy has emerged to acknowledge the broad role food and eating play in our lives and the empowerment that comes from meeting food needs well In this book contributors from Australia China United Kingdom and North America provide a review of international research on food literacy and how this can be applied in schools health care settings and public education and communication at the individual group and population level These varying perspectives will give the reader an introduction to this emerging concept The book gathers current insights and provides a platform for discussion to further understanding and application in this field It stimulates the reader to conceptualise what food literacy means to their practice and to critically review its potential contribution to a range of outcomes
