re contextualisation both within various popular pedagogies e.g. newspapers, film, TV, web pages, IT and the formal and informal practices of schools, families and peers we are compelled to appreciate the bewildering complexity of subjectivity and the ways in which it is embodied. Indeed, the chapters suggest that no matter how hegemonic or ubiquitous discursive practices may be, they inevitably tend to generate both intended and unexpected affects and effects; people and populations cannot easily be determined, suppressed or controlled. This book was originally published as a special issue of Sport, Education and Society.
