Study Of Lives:

Roman History and Mythology: Studies in the life of Heliogabalus. By O. F. Butler Henry Arthur Sanders,1908

Researching with Feeling Caroline Clarke, Mike Broussine, Linda Watts, 2014-10-10 Why should researchers be interested in their feelings and emotions as they carry out research Emotion is what it is to exist to be human and is present in every sphere of our lives All activities are infused with emotion even those that are constructed as rational because rationality and emotionality are interpenetrated and entwined because all thinking is tinged with feeling and all feeling is tinged with thinking This book illuminates the emotional processes of doing social and organizational research and the implications of this for the outcomes of research With contributions from leading academics and research practitioners it addresses the significant issue of the sometimes intense emotional experiences involved in doing research and the implications it has for the theory and practice of social research By examining the nature of feelings and emotions it explores how we might understand researchers emotions and experiences and considers the often powerful feelings encountered in a variety of research contexts Topics discussed include power relations psycho social explanations of researcher emotions paradoxical relations with research participants and the sometimes disturbing data that is gained research supervision the politics of research gender publishing undergoing vivas and presenting at conferences This book will therefore be a valuable companion to researchers and research students from the start of their career onwards Problems of Life and Mind: The study of psychology; its object, scope, and method George Henry Lewes, 1879 The Narrative Study of Lives, Vol. 1, 1994

University of Toronto Studies University of Toronto, 1914 From North Pole to Equator: Studies of Wild Life and Scenes in Many Lands Alfred Edmund Brehm, 1896 Survey of Current Business, 1968 Life's Greatest Problem and how it is Solved W. E. Russell, 1906 The Southern Educational Journal, 1897 Family Stories and the Life Course Michael W. Pratt, Barbara H. Fiese, 2004-04-26 This edited book draws from work that focuses on the act of telling family stories as well as their content and structure The process of telling family stories is linked to central aspects of development including language acquisition affect regulation and family interaction patterns This book extends across traditional developmental psychology personality theory and family studies Drawing broadly on the epigenetic framework for individual development articulated by Erik Erikson as well as on conceptions of the family life cycle the editors bring together contemporary examples of psychological research on family stories and their implications for development and change at different points in the life course The book is divided into sections that focus on family stories at different points in the life cycle from early childhood and the beginnings of narrative skill through adolescence young adulthood midlife and then mature adulthood and its intergenerational meaning During each of these periods of the life cycle research focusing on individual development within an Eriksonian framework of ego strengths and virtues is highlighted The dynamic role of family stories is also featured here with work exploring the links between family process intergenerational attachment and storytelling Sociocultural theories that emphasize how such development is situated in the wider cultural context are also featured in several chapters This broad lifespan developmental focus serves to integrate the exciting diversity of this work and foster further questions and research in the emerging field of family narrative The book is intended primarily for researchers and advanced level students in the fields of developmental and personality psychology as well as those in family studies and in gerontology It may also be of interest to those in the helping professions who are concerned with family therapy and family issues and may due to its content and illustrative material have appeal to a wider market of the lay public The chapters are written in a readily accessible style and the analyses are presented in a fairly non technical way Because family stories are charted across the lifespan it would be a suitable companion book to a more traditional lifespan textbook in certain courses

Handbook of Environmental Psychology and Quality of Life Research Ghazlane Fleury-Bahi,Enric Pol,Oscar Navarro,2016-08-12 This Handbook presents a broad overview of the current research carried out in environmental psychology which puts into perspective quality of life and relationships with living spaces and shows how this original analytical framework can be used to understand different environmental and societal issues Adopting an original approach this Handbook focuses on the links with other specialties in psychology especially social and health psychology together with other disciplines such as geography architecture sociology anthropology urbanism and engineering Faced with the problems of society which involve the quality of life of individuals and communities it is fundamental to consider the relationships an individual has with his different living spaces This issue of the links between quality of life and environment is becoming increasingly significant with at a local level problems resulting from different types of annoyances such as pollution and noise while at a global level there is the central question of climate change with its harmful consequences for humans and the planet How can the impact on well being of environmental nuisances and threats for example natural risks pollution and noise be reduced How can the quality of life within daily living spaces home cities work environments be improved Why is it important to understand the psychological issues of our relationship with the global environment climatic warming ecological behaviours This Handbook is intended not only for students of various disciplines geography architecture psychology town planning etc but also for social decision makers and players who will find in it both theoretical and methodological perspectives so that psychological and environmental dimensions can be better taken into account in their working practices
