Integrating Study Abroad Into the Curriculum Elizabeth Brewer, Kiran Cunningham, 2023-07-03 With the increased interest in study abroad from government educators employers and students the question is is study abroad engendering the desired intercultural competencies and intellectual development To achieve this goal this book proposes two strategies structure study abroad to bridge the separation of academic learning from experiential and intercultural learning and integrate study abroad with the undergraduate curriculum In proposing this integration the editors take into account the need for institutional change and recognize faculty members concerns about maintaining the integrity of the curriculum teaching in areas outside their expertise and keeping up with ever evolving institutional missions This book opens with two chapters presenting different theoretical perspectives relevant to the integration of study abroad into the curriculum. The following nine chapters provide examples from a variety of disciplines from anthropology and religious studies to literature, urban studies, biology, and public health, and within such contexts as distance learning, service learning, and the senior thesis. The concluding chapter considers faculty development activities and institutional structures and policies that support curriculum integration. While the examples are drawn from Beloit College and Kalamazoo College, liberal arts colleges with substantial study abroad enrollments and nationally recognized for their innovative practices, readers will recognize they are easily adaptable to their own institutions. The two colleges achieved their curricular innovations with limited financial resources and in the context that most of their students are dependent on financial aid. The transformational ideas and practices described here provide material for reflection and campus conversations for anyone concerned with developing global citizens and well-educated students and offer a blueprint for implementation.
