Founding Fictions Amy Boesky,1996 A cultural history of utopian writing in early modern England Founding Fictions traces the development of the genre from the publication of Thomas More s Utopia 1516 through Aphra Behn s Oroonoko 1688 Amy Boesky sees utopian literature rising alongside new social institutions that helped shape the modern English nation While utopian fiction explicitly advocates a reorganization of human activity which appears liberal or progressive utopias represent reform in self critical or qualitative ways Early modern utopias Boesky demonstrates are less blueprints for reform than they are challenges to the very possibility of improvement After an initial discussion of More s Utopia Boesky devotes subsequent chapters to Francis Bacon s New Atlantis the Civil War Utopias of Gabriel Plattes Samuel Gott and Gerrard Winstanley Margaret Cavendish s Blazing world and Henry Neville s Isle of Pines Relating the English public school to More s Utopia and early modern laboratories to Bacon s New Atlantis Boesky shows how utopists explored the formation of cultural identity through new institutional models Utopias of the 1640s and 1650s are read against new emphasis on work as the panacea for social ills Cavendish s Blazing world is seen as reproducing and reassessing restoration centers of authority in the court and theater and finally Neville s Isle of Pines and Behn s Oroonoko are read as interrogating the authorities of the English colony Despite widely divergent backgrounds says Boesky these utopists shared a sense that national identity was shaped less by individuals than by institutions which they praise for producing trained and trainable citizens instilled with the values of the modern state obedience discipline and order While the utopia tells its story partly to justify the goals of colonialism and to enforce differences in class gender and race it also tells a concurrent and less stable story that criticizes these ventures and exposes their limitations

Rich,2023-07-13 The Promise of Welfare in the Postwar British Novel offers a new literary history of the Second World War and its aftermath by focusing on wartime visions of rebuilding Britain Shifting attention from the People s War to the People s Peace this book shows that literature returns to the historic transition from warfare to welfare to narrate its transformative social potential and darker failures The welfare state envisioned that managing individuals private lives would result in a more coherent and equitable community a promise encapsulated in the 1942 Beveridge Report s promise of care from the cradle to the grave The postwar novel reveals the intimate effects that follow when infrastructures of collective living seek to organize social interaction tracing these effects through quasi administrated home spaces such as girls hostels makeshift sanatoria and experimental schools Mid century writers including Elizabeth Bowen Muriel Spark and Samuel Selvon used the militarized Home Front to present postwar Britain as a zone of lost privacy and new collective logics As the century progressed and as the unrealized dreams of welfare came to be dismantled authors including Alan Hollinghurst Michael Ondaatje and Kazuo Ishiguro registered an unfulfilled nostalgia for a Britain that never was situating British domestic policies within trajectories of historic and social violence Contemporary fiction continues to reanimate the transition from a warfare state to a welfare state preserving its transformative potential while redefining its possible futures With this long view of postwar fiction this volume demonstrates the holding power of welfare s promises of repair and Britain s mid century on the British cultural imagination An Anecdotal History of the British Parliament George Henry Jennings,1883
