Systems Of Nominal Classification:

Systems of Nominal Classification Gunter Senft, 2000-08-03 This book first published in 2000 addresses the fundamental linguistic question of how the perceived world is expressed through systems of nominal classification that are grammatically encoded in various languages A team of leading international scholars reviews the whole spectrum of nominal classification from gender systems through to numeral classifiers providing cutting edge theoretical interpretations and empirical case studies based on a wide range of languages The volume presents ideas about the problems of classification advances theory by proposing typological categories and clarifies the interface between anthropological and grammatical work Focusing on systems that have a conceptual semantic basis the contributors reflect and represent approaches in nominal classification research This invaluable reference work will appeal to linguists anthropologists and psychologists alike as well as specialists in languages as diverse as Australian Amazonian Mayan and Japanese

what do we really know about nominal classification systems? , Nominal Classification Marcin Kilarski, 2013-12-18 This book offers the first comprehensive survey of the study of gender and classifiers throughout the history of Western linguistics Based on an analysis of over 200 genetically and typologically diverse languages the author shows that these seemingly arbitrary and redundant categories play in fact a central role in the lexicon grammar and the organization of discourse As a result the often contradictory approaches to their functionality and semantic motivation encapsulate the evolving conceptions of such issues as cognitive and cultural correlates of linguistic structure the diverse functions of grammatical categories linguistic complexity agreement phenomena and the interplay between lexicon and grammar The combination of a typological and historiographic perspective adopted here allows the reader to appreciate the detail and insight of earlier supposedly prescientific accounts in light of the data now available and to examine contemporary discussions in the context of prevailing conceptions in the study of language at different points in its history since antiquity

Verb Classification in Australian Languages William B. McGregor, 2013-06-10 This book deals with systems of verb classification in Australian Aboriginal languages with particular focus on languages of the north west It proposes a typology of the systems according to their main formal and semantic characteristics It also makes some proposals concerning the historical origins and grammaticisation of these systems and suggestions regarding the grammatical relations involved In addition an attempt is made to situate the phenomenon of verb classification within the context of related verbal phenomena such as serial verb constructions nominal incorporation and complex predicates

Non-canonical Gender Systems Sebastian Fedden, Jenny Audring, Greville G. Corbett, 2018 This book explores the boundaries of the category of gender and their theoretical significance within the framework of Canonical Typology International experts analyse a variety of gender systems from a range of typologically diverse languages from across the world from South America to Melanesia and from Central Italy to Northern Australia

Systems of Norminal Classification: a Concluding Discussion , The Languages and Linguistics of Mainland Southeast Asia Paul

Sidwell, Mathias Jenny, 2021-08-23 The handbook will offer a survey of the field of linguistics in the early 21st century for the Southeast Asian Linguistic Area. The last half century has seen a great increase in work on language contact, work in genetic theoretical and descriptive linguistics and since the 1990s especially documentation of endangered languages. The book will provide an account of work in these areas focusing on the achievements of SEAsian linguistics as well as the challenges and unresolved issues and provide a survey of the relevant major publications and other available resources. We will address Survey of the languages of the area organized along genetic lines with discussion of relevant political and cultural background issues. Theoretical descriptive and typological issues. Genetic classification and historical linguistics. Areal and contact linguistics. Other areas of interest such as sociolinguistics, semantics, writing systems etc. Resources: major monographs and monograph series, dictionaries, journals, electronic data bases etc. Grammar sketches of languages representative of the genetic and structural diversity of the region.

The Typology and Diachrony of Nominal Classification Matthias Benjamin Passer, 2016. There are two ways for a language to classify its nouns: either by means of classifiers which specify the semantics of the classified noun or by means of grammatical gender which groups all nouns of a language into formal classes. This thesis investigates the common assumption that classifier systems may develop into grammatical gender systems. Because this diachronic phenomenon has not yet been documented for any language, the likelihood that such a development would occur is examined by means of a typological study of synchronic systems. In analyzing the data, this study adopts a new perspective on the development of nominal classification by separating how the means of formal expression develops from the development of those components that have to do with a system's semantic transparency. This twofold account for the data from a variety sample of 40 languages shows that there is indeed a number of systems that lie at the intersection of classifiers and gender systems but that a direct shift from classifier to gender is not likely to occur.

Metadata and Semantics Research Emmanouel Garoufallou, Richard J. Hartley, Panorea Gaitanou, 2015-09-03. This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 9th Metadata and Semantics Research Conference MTSR 2015 held in Manchester UK in September 2015. The 35 full papers and 3 short papers presented together with 2 poster papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 76 submissions. The papers are organized in several sessions and tracks: general track on ontology, evolution, engineering and frameworks; semantic Web and metadata extraction; modelling interoperability and exploratory search; data analysis, reuse and visualization; track on digital libraries, information retrieval, linked and social data; track on metadata and semantics for open repositories, research information systems and data infrastructure; track on metadata and semantics for agriculture, food and environment; track on metadata and semantics for cultural collections and applications; track on European and national projects.
