Farming Systems Research into the 21st Century: The New Dynamic Ika Darnhofer, David Gibbon, Benoît Dedieu, 2012-05-30 Farming Systems Research has three core characteristics it builds on systems thinking it depends on the close collaboration between social and biophysical sciences and it relies on participation to build co-learning processes Farming Systems Research posits that to contribute towards sustainable rural development both interdisciplinary collaborations and local actor engagement are needed Together they allow for changes in understanding and changes in practices This book gives an overview of the insights generated in 20 years of Farming Systems Research It retraces the emergence and development of Farming Systems Research in Europe summarises the state of the art for key areas and provides an outlook on new explorations especially those tackling the dynamic nature of farming systems and their interaction with the natural environment and the context of action

A History of Farming Systems Research Michael P. Collinson, 2000 This book provides a detailed history of farming systems research FSR While it includes the application of FSR to developed country agriculture its main focus is on FSR in its original role with small scale resource poor farmers in less developed countries There are some 40 contributions from nearly 50 contributors from 20 countries illustrating both the diversity and yet the coherence of FSR The five parts of the book cover 1 FSR understanding farmers and their farming FSR origins and perspectives understanding farming systems 2 the applications of farming systems research FSR in technology choice and development FSR in extension and policy formulation 3 institutional commitment to FSR FSR some institutional experiences in national agricultural research dimensions of the organization of FSR training for FSR 4 FSR the professional dimension regional and international associations FSR and the professional disciplines and 5 cutting edge methods abiding issues and the future for FSR

Social Learning Systems and Communities of Practice Chris Blackmore, 2010-06-01 Social Learning Systems and Communities of Practice is a collection of classical and contemporary writing associated with learning and systemic change in contexts ranging from cities to rural development to education to nursing to water management to public policy It is likely to be of interest to anyone trying to understand how to think systemically and to act and interact effectively in situations experienced as complex messy and changing While mainly concerned with professional praxis where theory and practice inform each other there is much here that can apply at a personal level This book offers conceptual tools and suggestions for new ways of being and acting in the world in relation to each other that arise from both old and new understandings of communities learning and systems Starting with twentieth century insights into social learning learning systems and appreciative systems from Donald Schön and Sir Geoffrey Vickers the book goes on to consider the contemporary traditions of critical social learning systems and communities of practice pioneered by Richard Bawden and Etienne Wenger and their colleagues A synthesis of the ideas raised written by the editor concludes this reader The theory and practice of social learning systems and communities of practice appear to have much to offer in influencing and managing systemic change for a better world Agile Data-Oriented Research Tools to Support Smallholder Farm System Transformation James Hammond, Mark Van Wijk, Aniruddha Ghosh, Tim Pagella, Jacob Van Etten, 2023-05-09 Smallholder farming systems contribute a substantial quantity of the food consumed in many lower and middle income countries and contribute to the national and local economies Despite the importance of smallholder farming a transformation is needed in order to deliver food security and decent incomes for the farmers themselves and at the national level This transformation must also be sustainable in terms of environmental impacts and social equity in order to be successful in the long term The pressures of population growth climate change and land fragmentation compound the problem Addressing these overlapping issues is a big challenge One obstacle is the lack of good quality granular data linking these issues together Household surveys are the workhorse method for gathering such data but there are well known problems that prevent household survey data from building up a big picture and delivering insights beyond the geographical boundary of each individual study Such obstacles include the lack of access to datasets differences in survey design and respondent biases Agile data oriented research tools can help to overcome these challenges We use the term agile to imply methods that do not attempt exhaustive measurements which are designed to be easy to use and which entail some degree of flexibility in terms of adaptation to local conditions and integration with other tools or methods Often these methods also nudge the behavior of tool users towards best practices In recent years various research tools and approaches have been published which fit within our definition of agile data oriented research tools The domains these tools function in include monitoring and evaluation intervention targeting tailored information delivery citizen science credit scoring and user feedback collection all with the over arching aim to improve data quality and access for those studying the sustainable development of smallholder farming systems The goal of this Research Topic is to better define that niche the ecosystem of tools and current practices and to explore how such approaches can provide the underpinning knowledge required for the transformation of smallholder farming systems One example of an agile data oriented research tool is the Rural Household Multi Indicator Survey RHoMIS It is a modular digital system for building household surveys addressing the common topics in smallholder development It was purposefully designed to give a broad overview of the farm system whilst keeping survey duration to a minimum to be user friendly in implementation and to be sufficiently flexible to function in a broad variety of locations and projects Since 2015 it has been used by 30 organizations in 32 countries to interview over 34 000 households The tool and database are open access and a community of practice is developing around the tool We particularly welcome contributions that engage with the RHoMIS tool and data However we also describe the tool in order to provide an example of what is meant by an agile data oriented research tool and welcome contributions focusing on other tools or methodologies We encourage the submission of manuscripts addressing the above topic and those which fit within one of the following three sub themes i Perspectives or review articles which explore the niche best practices or promising approaches in agile data oriented research tools for smallholder farm system transformation Also technology and code articles that describe new tools are welcomed ii Original research articles presenting analyses based on data derived from agile data oriented tools used at the project level Examples include impact evaluations adoption studies targeting studies or adaptive management and should reflect on the additional benefit leveraged by the agile method applied iii Original research articles that make use of the large amounts of data generated by such agile methods and or link between agile data and other data sources Examples include meta analyses of data from multiple studies layering data collected from different agile tools or linking agile data to remote sensing or large scale modeling outputs

Agriculture + Rural Development, 1994 Facilitating Sustainable Agriculture N. G. Roling, M. A. E. Wagemakers, 2000-09-21 A move towards more flexible sustainable agricultural practices is increasingly being seen as the way to address or avoid environmental and economic problems associated with existing predominantly intensive farming systems Through case studies taken from around the world this book examines the implications of adopting more ecologically sound agricultural practices both at the level of individual farmers and at the level of larger scale agro ecosystems such as water catchments The emphasis of the book is on human and social aspects rather than on agronomic or economic considerations focusing on the learning processes necessary for change to be implemented and in turn on the facilitation of that learning through participatory approaches and appropriate institutional support and policy structure Research on Agricultural Systems Jean Philippe Colin, 2000 The purpose of this book is to provide an overview of research on agricultural systems that is both broad and selective The focus is broad by covering approaches used in a number of disciplines as well as in multidisciplinary studies and by defining agricultural systems to include cropping systems fanning systems agricultural household systems and agricultural systems at higher levels such as the agrarian system The focus is selective by emphasizing key methods and ongoing debates rather than attempting a comprehensive review of literature Most previous reviews of research on agricultural systems have concentrated on a particular approach eg farming systems research FSR including comparisons of anglophone and francophone variants of FSR or on research conducted in specific geographical settings Agricultural Systems and Policy Association for Farming Systems Research/Extension. Recherches-système en agriculture et développement rural Michel Sebillotte, 1994 Methodes environnement agriculture intensive savoirs paysans organisations rurales formation politiques agricoles Redesigning Animal Agriculture, 2007 Focusing on livestock production systems this text addresses how the diversity of global food demands will be met in future providing insights into scientific areas and the implications for addressing global drivers for change Survey of Activities Koninklijk Instituut voor de Tropen, 1993 Asia-Pacific Journal of Rural Development, 1997 Learning from the Farming Systems Research Experiences in Indonesia Junko Goto, Henny Mayrowani, 2000 Inventory and Assessment of Selected Farm-level Participatory Research Methods in Tanzania O.
