The Internet and Beyond BWI Staff,1999-01     The Internet and beyond ,1997     The Internet and Beyond S.P. Sim,J. Davies,2012-12-06 We live in exciting times We have over the last few years seen the birth of a new telecommunications service which will fundamentally change the way we live much as the telephone has over the last 100 years The birth of the Internet can be traced back to a conference on computer communications held in 1972 As a result of that conference a working group was set up under the chairmanship of Vint Cerf to propose new protocols to facilitate computer communications In 1974 the working group published the transmission control protocol fCP and the Interworking protocol IP These were rapidly adopted and the number of computers linked using these protocols has almost doubled every year since Thus the Internet was born Another major step happened in 1990 Tim Berners Lee a Scottish nuclear physicist working at CERN created some higher level protocols These still used TCP IP for the networking but defined how computers could communicate multimedia information and be linked together to form a World Wide Web of information A number of computer databases adopted these protocols and things really took off in 1993 when Marc Andreessen at the University of Illinois developed Mosaic the first client software a browser that gave a windows style interface to these databases

Communications Policy in Transition Benjamin M. Compaine,Shane M. Greenstein,2001 A collection of research reports on policy issues involving telecommunications particularly the Internet Until the 1980s it was presumed that technical change in most communications services could easily be monitored from centralized state and federal agencies This presumption was long outdated prior to the commercialization of the Internet With the Internet the long forecast convergence of voice video and text bits became a reality Legislation capped by the Telecommunications Act of 1996 created new quasi standards such as fair and reasonable for the FCC and courts to apply leading to nonstop litigation and occasional gridlock This book addresses some of the many telecommunications areas on which public policy makers corporate strategists and social activists must reach agreement Topics include the regulation of access Internet architecture in a commercial era communications infrastructure development the Digital Divide and information policy issues such as intellectual property and the retransmission of TV programming via the Internet     The Internet Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Beyond the Internet Rita Figueiras,Paula do Espírito Santo,2015-12-22 The western economic and financial crisis began with the collapse of Lehman Brothers in 2008 and led the European Union countries into recession After this governments started to implement austerity measures such as cuts in public spending including public subsidies and jobs and rising prices In this context Europe started to experience a wave of protest movements Individuals started to use the manifold interactive digital media environment to both fight against the austerity measures and find alternative ways of claiming their democratic rights Inspired by the 2011 Arab Spring and the Occupy Wall Street movement in New York USA the Occupy LSX encampment in Central London UK The Outraged Los Indignados 15M encampment in Central Madrid Spain the Syntagma Square s Outraged movement in Athens Greece and the March 12th Movement in Lisbon Portugal although short lived epitomize an emerging alternative politics and participation via the media This wave has promoted a debate on how the realm of politics is changing as citizens broaden their ideas of what political issues and participation mean Beyond the Internet examines the technological dimension of the recent wave of protest movements in the United Kingdom Spain Portugal Greece and Ireland Offering an opportunity to achieve a better understanding of the dynamics between society politics and technology this volume questions the essentialist attributes of the Internet that fuel the techno centric discourse The contributors illustrate how all these protest movements were active in the social media and garnered high levels of media attention and public visibility in spite of their failure to achieve their political goals As intra elite dissent was pivotal in understanding the Arab uprisings the coalition of national ruling elites with European institutions in terms of austerity strategy is essential in understanding the limits of media technology power and therefore the dissociation between communication and representative power Beyond the Internet Barbara A. Chernow,2024-09-23 This title is an expos of the myth that the Internet is a complete reference tool The issue is not what you cannot find on the Internet but what you miss if you only consult it Anecdotes from the author lend a personal element to the practical advice in the book This new edition includes a chapter on the problems posed by artificial intelligence

Realizing the Information Future National Research Council,Computer Science and Telecommunications Board,NRENAISSANCE Committee,1994-02-01 The potential impact of the information superhighway what it will mean to daily work shopping and entertainment is of concern to nearly everyone In the rush to put the world on line special issues have emerged for researchers educators and students and library specialists At the same time the research and education communities have a valuable head start when it comes to understanding computer communications networks particularly Internet With its roots in the research community the Internet computer network now links tens of millions of people and extends well into the commercial world Realizing the Information Future is written by key players in the development of Internet and other data networks The volume highlights what we can learn from Internet and how the research education and library communities can take full advantage of the information highway s promised reach through time and space This book presents a vision for the proposed national information infrastructure NII an open data network sending information services of all kinds from suppliers of all kinds to customers of all kinds across network providers of all kinds Realizing the Information Future examines deployment issues for the NII in light of the proposed system architecture with specific discussion of the needs of the research and education communities What is the role of the institution when everyone is online in their homes and offices What are the consequences when citizens can easily access legal medical educational and government services information from a single system These and many other important questions are explored The committee also looks at the development of principles to address the potential for abuse and misuse of the information highway covering Equitable and affordable access to the network Reasonable approaches to controlling the rising tide of electronic information Rights and responsibilities relating to freedom of expression intellectual property individual privacy and data security Realizing the Information Future includes a wide ranging discussion of costs pricing and federal funding for network development and a discussion of the federal role in making the best technical choices to ensure that the expected social and economic benefits of the NII are realized The time for the research and education communities to have their say about the information highway is before the ribbon is cut Realizing the Information Future provides a timely readable and comprehensive exploration of key issues important to computer scientists and engineers researchers librarians and their administrators educators and individuals interested in the shape of the information network that will soon link us all
