An illustration of a woman with short, wavy brown hair and glasses, wearing a light blue t-shirt and denim overalls. She is pointing at a computer monitor displaying a colorful dashboard. To her right stands a friendly-looking robot with a white head, large blue eyes, and a blue body. The background is a modern office with large windows, desks, and other people working.

A pervasive disconnect exists between the job career culture and the present economic reality in America. This book offers powerful strategies for stemming the employment crisis and proposes comprehensive solutions for businesses, government, and job seekers alike. America's low unemployment rate overshadows the fact that more than 20 million Americans are still unemployed. Moreover, more than eight million jobs are vacant because employers cannot find qualified candidates. It is projected that if this imbalance between available positions and skills is not quickly addressed, more than 14 million jobs will be vacant by 2020, and that many more people will be out of work. In Future Jobs, historical economist Edward E. Gordon explains how increasingly complex technologies, global demographic shifts, and outdated education to employment systems are converging and may imminently cause a labor market crisis. How can we ensure that enough people possess the skills necessary to holding the jobs of today and tomorrow? This book points to a solution gaining traction across the United States: Regional Talent Innovation Networks (RETAINs), alliances of businesses, educators, government agencies, and nonprofit organizations that successfully bridge the talent gap. Additionally, it provides information on the most promising jobs and careers of the next decade for early career job seekers and for workers who are looking to change career paths.

The Work We Need Hilary Cottam, 2025-05-29
Brimming with ideas to transform the future, Hilary Cottam takes us on a fascinating journey to discover how to make work work. KATE RAWORTH, author of DOUGHNUT ECONOMICS, Cottam is the humane revolutionary our turbulent century needs, and this book our roadmap to a better future. JONATHAN FREEDLAND, author of THE ESCAPE ARTIST: An act of radical hope, radical listening, and radical humility. I loved it. RORY STEWART: Work, for decades, has been debated and discussed as a narrow economic category. Instead, Hilary Cottam identifies work as a cultural force at the heart of good lives, strong communities, and a sense of a shared national destiny. Crucially, in these dramatic times, she shows how we can shape this force to meet technological change, our ecological crisis, and the challenges of the world's deep injustices. We can create a work revolution. Ambitious but rooted in the ideas of everyday experts, real workers from all walks of life, this is a realistic and hopeful book. Hilary Cottam has crossed the UK and the USA; she's spent time in communities considered by outsiders as left behind and in places at the centre of financial and technological power. Drawing on a fascinating range of sources—historians, trade unionists, business leaders, philosophers, and most originally, hours of her imaginative workshops with workers—Hilary Cottam boldly asks: how can we redesign work? Our challenges—political, social, economic, and environmental—are tangled and growing. But so are the imaginative solutions. In this exciting, inspiring, and optimistic book, Hilary shows us how we could work differently and live better. Twenty-first century people cannot give their best if tied down to twentieth-century patterns of work. Hilary Cottam
