From the winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature this is the fourth instalment in the visionary novel cycle Canopus in Argos Archives The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 /Philip Glass ; Doris Lessing Philip Glass, Doris Lessing, 1988 The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 Doris Lessing, 1988 Planet 8 a prosperous world with intelligent vital inhabitants is transformed by an Ice Age a change that causes a critical variation in lifestyle and a drastic reappraisal of the meaning and value of life The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 Doris Lessing, 1982

Making of the Representative for Planet 8; Canopus in Argos: Archives Doris Lessing, 1982 Canopus in Argos: Archives. [4.] Doris Lessing, 1982 The Making of the Representative for Planet 8 Philip Glass, 1988 Identity in Doris Lessing's Space Fiction David F. Waterman, 2006 In this study of identity in Doris Lessing's space fiction David Waterman devotes a chapter to each of the five novels in the Canopus in Argos Archives series as well as Briefing for a Descent into Hell Memoirs of a Survivor and finally The Reason for It This is an important addition to understanding the works of this prolific author His major argument is that Lessing's space fiction identifies the universal problem society's division into competitive and predatory groups and places it outside the bounds of time and space encouraging a social critique which takes into account our inherited blindness our degenerative disease which must be addressed before genuine progress can be made Lessing's examination of the relationship between individual identity and group identity produces a productive tension that accounts for so much of interest in her work over many years Nowhere is that tension more obvious or more interesting than in the space fiction that David Waterman so ably explores Waterman writes convincingly of Lessing's desire to cut through the performance the received ideas the habits and customs of our daily lives Drawing on a wide range of sources he provides an interdisciplinary reading of the space fiction and maps Lessing's brave exploration of the hierarchical landscapes that so often imprison us Waterman offers a timely reading of Lessing for contemporary readers living in the landscape of globalization Professor Margaret Moan Rowe Purdue University The Making of the representative for Planet 8 Philip Glass, English National Opera, Coliseum, 1988 Re-Embroidering the Robe Suzanne Bray, Adrienne E. Gavin, Peter Merchant, 2009-10-02 Religious faith myths and legends have always been present in literature However their role has changed over time Since the middle of the nineteenth century with the diminishing role of religion in European society writers with some kind of belief system whether religious or political have tended to use myth in two different ways They have either retold the old familiar myths of the past so that they carry fresh messages relevant to a contemporary audience or created their own new myths as modern vehicles of traditional truths Many writers have combined the two techniques Such is the transforming artistry which the eighteen essays in Re Embroidering the Robe examine the remaking or new minting of myth in literature from 1850 to the present day so that what it embodies and expresses speaks powerfully to the modern reader In widely differing ways therefore all of the texts analysed here compel attention

Psychic Connection and the Twentieth-Century British Novel Mark Taylor, 2023-01-08 Criticism of the novel routinely starts with the assumption that characters must think develop and strive for self fulfilment as individuals This book challenges the paradigm that individualism is innate to the novel as a medium It describes how major writers throughout the twentieth century many convinced by the supposed findings of parapsychology rejected the idea of the discrete character Treating the self as porous they offered novels structured around the development of communities and ideas rather than individuals By focusing on D H Lawrence Olaf Stapledon Aldous Huxley and Doris Lessing Mark Taylor demonstrates the need to broaden our approach to character when addressing the novel of the twentieth century and beyond Apocalypse in Crisis Christopher Palmer, 2021-10-15 Apocalypse is traditional and familiar and it is an actual threat it is feared desired and banal Apocalypse in Crisis discusses fictions from the 1940s to the present examining shifts in the imagination of apocalypse from the postwar British disaster novels through novels of the countercultural sixties feminist interventions and recent revisions and critiques As empire fades ideas of sexuality shift and attitudes to nature and to the city change so apocalyptic fictions change The individual subject is asserted immolated transcended abandoned individual deaths are substituted for mass death death is faked or erased The subjects and survivors of catastrophe set about re establishing civilization or they abandon it finding new ways of being and of dying they respond to it when it comes from outside as an invasion or they are immersed in it as it shifts from being an event to being a condition They flee the city for the country or accept that they must draw on the energies of the world city in order to survive The book includes detailed discussion of novels by H G Wells George M Stewart Nevil Shute John Wyndham Arthur C Clarke J G Ballard Brian Aldiss Doris Lessing Angela Carter Anna Kavan Arno Schmidt Anthony Burgess Ursula K Le Guin Tom Perrotta Douglas Coupland Don DeLillo China Mi ville Jeff VanderMeer and Kim Stanley Robinson The Span of Mainstream and Science Fiction Peter Brigg, 2002-11-05 From the 1960s when the advent of what many call the postmodern style made establishing genres more difficult to the present day writers have been incorporating science not only the commonly thought of science and technology but also the soft sciences such as psychology and sociology into what was previously considered mainstream fiction This book examines works by Thomas Pynchon Doris Lessing and others who incorporate science in fiction and exemplify the movement of mainstream fiction writers toward a new genre termed span It also examines works by some science fiction writers who are edging closer to the border of science fiction and slowly over into span This book maps the boundaries of the new span genre of fiction and thus helps define texts that fall outside the realms of mainstream and science fiction Diagrams are included and a bibliography and index The Golden Notebook Doris Lessing, 2013-05-14 The Golden Notebook is Doris Lessing's most important work and has left its mark upon the ideas and feelings of a whole generation of women New York Times Book Review Anna is a writer author of one very successful novel who now keeps four notebooks In one with a black cover she reviews the African experience of her earlier years In a red one she records her political life her disillusionment with communism In a yellow one she writes a novel in which the heroine relives part of her own experience And in a blue one she keeps a personal diary Finally in love with an American writer and threatened with insanity Anna resolves to bring the threads of all four books together in a golden notebook Lessing s best known and most influential novel The Golden Notebook retains its extraordinary power and relevance decades after its initial publication Mara and Dann Doris

Alfred and Emily Doris Lessing,2009-10-13 I think my father s rage at the trenches took me over when I was very young and has never left me Do children feel their parents emotions Yes we do and it is a legacy I could have done without What is the use of it It is as if that old war is in my own memory my own consciousness In this extraordinary book the 2007 Nobel Laureate Doris Lessing explores the lives of her parents each irrevocably damaged by the Great War Her father wanted the simple life of an English farmer but shrapnel almost killed him in the trenches and thereafter he had to wear a wooden leg Her mother Emily spent the war nursing the wounded in the Royal Free Hospital after her great love a doctor drowned in the Channel In the fictional first half of Alfred and Emily Doris Lessing imagines the happier lives her parents might have made for themselves had there been no war a story that begins with their meeting at a village cricket match outside Colchester This is followed by a piercing examination of their relationship as it actually was in the shadow of the Great War of the family s move to Africa and of the impact of her parents marriage on a young woman growing up in a strange land Here I still am says Doris Lessing trying to get out from under that monstrous legacy trying to get free Triumphantly with the publication of Alfred and Emily she has done just that The Unexpected Universe of Doris Lessing Katherine Fishburn,1985-12-06 In this first study of Doris Lessing s science fiction Fishburn devotes a chapter to each of Lessing s seven novels Her major argument is that Lessing uses these novels to change our perception of reality by describing worlds that are simultaneously similar to and different from our own Of particular importance is the fact that each narrator by functioning as an intermediary or guide leader helps skeptical readers to experience the alien worlds of Lessing s imagination As she traces the development of these seven narrators Fishburn shows how they eventually fulfill the role of the idealized author Lessing described in The Small Personal Voice In examining how these texts challenge us to change Fishburn discusses the influence of Marxist and Sufi thought on Lessing and also points out the striking similarity between Lessing's philosophy of wholeness and the discoveries of modern physics Love, Again Doris Lessing, 2012-01-30 A fierce compelling account of the nature and origins of love from Doris Lessing one of the most acclaimed writers of the twentieth century and winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature 2007 Magill's Guide to Science Fiction and Fantasy Literature T.
