Italian Medieval Sculpture in the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Cloisters Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), Lisbeth Castelnuovo-Tedesco, Jack Soltanian, 2010 The collection of Italian medieval sculpture in The Metropolitan Museum of Art and The Cloisters began with the acquisition in 1908 of a Romanesque column statue today the Museum's holdings comprise more than seventy works dating from the ninth to the late fifteenth century The birthplaces of these works range from Sicily to Venice some typify local styles others illustrate the intense artistic exchanges taking place within Italy and between Italy and the wider world Technological advances of the last decades have made it possible to determine more precisely the materials and techniques from which works of art are made the history of their alteration and the mechanisms of their deterioration Using such techniques scholars have been able to ascertain for example that sculptures previously thought to be modern works carved in the medieval manner were in fact completely authentic This innovative volume represents a watershed in the study of sculpture a collaborative dialogue between an art historian and a conservator between art history and art science that deepens our understanding of the object we see while illuminating its elusive enigmatic history From publisher s description The Uncertain Trumpet Arthur Stuart-Menteth Hutchinson,1929 Jazz Age comic drama of small town English life with sinners of the flesh and sinners of the spirit The Kitten Pilgrims Robert Michael Ballantyne,1882 English Delftware Drug Jars Briony Hudson,2006 Tin glazed earthenware had been known in the Middle East from around 1000BC However it only became common in northern Europe during the 16th century when it was known as majolica or Delftware as a consequence of the large quantity manufactured in Delft Holland Delftware soon became widely used by apothecaries for the storage of powders ointments syrups oils and confections and such drug jars were often highly decorated or labelled to indicate their contents or commemorate events Manufacture of Delftware drug jars began at certain locations in London in about 1570 until about 1780 by which time tin glazed earthenware began to be replaced by creamware the forerunner of our modern white earthenware English Delftware drug jars were expensive highly prized objects and because of their cost largely remained the property of London based apothecaries However in the British Isles Delftware drug jars were also produced in Liverpool Glasgow Dublin and Limerick Today English Delftware drug jars are highly collectable and rare Fine examples often sell on the open market for in excess of pound 10 000 Most of the ceramics are highly decorated with blue coloured designs However multicoloured jars are also known though are very rare Several museums and individuals hold collections of Delftware drug jars though the collection in the museum of the RPSGB is regarded as the finest in the UK and is of international significance Until relatively recently the RPSGB collection had not been fully photographed and catalogued A comprehensive survey or catalogue of the collection has not previously been published This new title will include an introductory chapter by the Editor along with a chapter on the history of English Delftware Drug jars by William Jackson a pharmacist historian noted as one of the UK s leading authorities on drug jars An additional chapter from archaeologists at the Museum of London will give an overview of Delftware manufacture in London Since fragments of Delftware are readily identifiable and datable the importance of Delftware in dating archaeological excavations will also be described These three chapters will be illustrated with 220 individual colour photos of drug jars from the RPSGB collection Each photograph will be systematically captioned with relevant text describing the drug jar its manufacture date etc St. Nicholas ,1905 A brief handbook for visitors to the Royal Irish academy's museum of Irish antiquities Royal Irish academy mus,1876
