In Search of the African Wild Dog Roger De la Harpe, Pat De la Harpe, 2009 Arguable the most successful hunter in Africa the African wild dog ironically finds itself on the brink of extinction Part of the Canidae family and sharing a general similarity with the various canids worldwide the African wild dog differs fundamentally from other canids it belongs to the genus Lycaon which formed a new branch on the family tree some 3 million years back and subsequently evolved independently Today it is the only survivor of this unique line and because of its genetic difference is unable to interbreed with any of its canid relatives or even with the domestic dog Previously found in diverse habitats across the continent it has tragically disappeared from much of its former range Today there are only an estimated 3 000 to 5 500 wild dogs left in the whole of Africa a mere 500 of which occur in South Africa In spite of or perhaps because of the elusive nature of the wild dogs and their limited population numbers Roger and Pat have produced their best book yet African Native Notes and Reminiscences Frederick Courteney Selous, 1908 The Domestic Dog Brian Vesey-FitzGerald, 2023-10-09 First published in 1957 The Domestic Dog is the introduction to the history of man's best friend with special reference to Great Britain After discussing the natural history of the Canidae and the possible sources of domestication Mr Vesey FitzGerald surveys the career of the domestic dog from its beginnings in pre historic times through to its present position as household companion and pet He pays particular attention to the early literature of the dog and even more particularly to representations of the dog by the great artists of the world since he believes that much of the history of the individual breeds can be traced in this way He discusses the part played by the dog in war in sport and in the day to day occupations of man He traces the development of breeding for Show and the growth of the Dog Show from the local rivalry of a few enthusiasts to a vast and complicated business and considers the effect of breeding for Show on the dog as an animal Finally he discusses the most controversial subject the classification of the domestic dog and gives brief histories and descriptions of the various breeds This book will be of interest to students of history veterinary science as well as to anyone with a love for dogs The Present Evolution of Man Reid,1896 The Present Evolution of Man Sir George Archdall O'Brien Reid,1896
