Siting Environmentally Unwanted Facilities:

Siting Environmentally Unwanted Facilities Euston Quah, K. C. Tan, 2002 This book deals with the question of location of hazardous and non hazardous facilities that no one wants not in my backyard the NIMBY syndrome Risk Management Strategies Applied To Environmental Cleanup In Central And Eastern Europe - Proceedings Of The International School Of Innovative Technologies For Cleaning The Environment Richard C Ragaini, 1997-05-27 This book evaluates current technology and policy practices in the United States and Western Europe in the areas of environmental risk assessment risk prioritization and risk management and recommends strategies for successful risk management regarding cleanups in Central and Eastern Europe CEE The primary focus is on the evaluation of proven risk management strategies which can gain public and regulatory acceptance and thereby accelerate the demonstration and use of innovative US and host country environmental technologies in CEE This will in turn help to accelerate the use of innovative cost effective cleanup systems at US DOE sites and the use of US environmental technologies in foreign markets The book emphasizes using risk management strategies as key components of integrated life cycle systems designed to treat hazardous radioactive waste and to remediate soil groundwater plumes Other topics of discussion include partnerships with international companies for commercial applications acceptance by CEE governments and relationships to other US government initiatives

Environmental Concerns and Sustainable Development Sakarama Somayaji, Ganesha Somayaji, 2009-01-01 At the dawn of this 21st century environmental concerns have received utmost attention from all segments of human society The extreme abuse of nature and ruthless hunt for material happiness are the reasons for post enlightenment destruction of the environment Many consider the issues related to environmental degradation as an environmental crisis During the last century humans have been exploiting nature not merely for need but also for greed Environmentally concerned individuals call for immediate action to stop being greedy and act positively In India too this environmental awareness is fast spreading and the Honourable Supreme Court of India has directed the Central and state governments to introduce courses regarding environmental issues at all levels of education This book is a compilation of research results pertaining to development environment and sustainable development in the form of articles The Distributional Effects of Environmental Policy

Johnstone Nick, Serret Ysé, 2006-02-23 This book builds upon existing literature to simultaneously examine disparities in the distribution of environmental impacts of environmental policy and in the distribution of financial effects among households

Operations Research and Environmental Management Carlo Carraro, Alain Haurie, 2012-12-06 The activities of the Fondazione ENI Enrico Mattei cover a broad spectrum of research topics ranging from economics to engineering from environmental management at the industry or regional level to basic mathematical modeling research It is the combination of the activities on these last two topics that led the Fondazione to organise with the University of Geneva a workshop where operation research tools were designed with the aim to provide national and local policy makers with appropriate analytical and policy instruments for environmental management In the recent past attention has often been devoted to global environmental issues in which the level of policy making is either international through multi country agreements on emission control or national when environmental policies are designed to control domestic pollution Many environmental problems however have a local or regional dimension Even when their dimension is global e g in the case of the greenhouse gas effect relevant decisions on emission control such as the adoption of energy saving utilities are taken at the local level In many countries the current legislation imposes the local authorities to prepare plans and adopt measures to control energy consumption or to reduce waste of natural resources It is therefore important to analyze the way in which local or regional authorities optimise their environmental management

Research Handbook on Environmental Sociology Franzen, Axel,Mader, Sebastian,2021-11-19 This Research Handbook presents the state of the art of empirical sociological research on the causes of and solutions to pressing environmental problems It provides cutting edge insights into some of the most urgent challenges facing humanity including anthropogenic climate change and environmental pollution The contributors argue that profound collective efforts to protect the environment are vital for sustainable development and offer practical solutions to specific contemporary issues

Siting Hazardous Waste Treatment Facilities Kent Portney,1991-02-28 Since the 1960s and 70s a wave of environmental awareness has swept the United States News reports of oil spills DDT damage to wildlife and the nuclear near disaster at Three Mile Island have along with other incidents contributed to a widespread distrust of industry and a collective fear of all chemical processing facilities This fear has been translated according to Kent Portney into local political opposition to the siting of much needed hazardous waste treatment plants the NIMBY not in my backyard syndrome The failure of federal state and local governments to effectively control improper hazardous waste disposal has further strengthened the NIMBY syndrome Portney argues that once it is understood what motivates the array of local attitudes toward hazardous waste treatment facilities and the political constraints placed on the search for solutions effective compromises can be reached The book begins by focusing on the facility siting dilemma and what can be done to find new policies that work Chapter two analyzes what does and does not work in easing the effects of the NIMBY syndrome Democratic political processes are investigated in chapter three especially those that contribute to the development of NIMBY opposition Chapters four and five present empirical correlates of changes in peoples attitudes and explain how people can ultimately be convinced to support local hazardous waste treatment facilities Social cultural and psychological construction of opposition to facility siting is studied in chapter six Portney presents viable solutions to the facility siting problem in light of the NIMBY syndrome in the concluding chapter This important book will be of great value to practitioners facing actual siting decisions members of statewide siting boards private sector parties wishing to site facilities and those teaching courses in environmental policy or politics

Energy and Society Alfredo Agustoni, Mara Maretti, 2015-10-08 This book deals with a pivotal issue often marginalized by sociological analysis the relationship between energy and society with different contributions from several European scholars The articles cover a series of topics concerning energy policies risk communication and sustainable development The increasingly complex social organization emerging from the energy shifts of the last two centuries incorporates an increasing quantity of expert knowledge Quite paradoxically when the expert systems seem to be realizing the dream of total control on the uncertainty of the events any occasional accident reveals to be a check for them contributes to undermining their credibility Following the idea of a post democratic turn this kind of mistrust can be considered a different face of political elites and politics in general in the frame of a radical change concerning political culture in the last several decades This change is clear in areas such as risk communication governance and energy policies

Environment and Planning, 2003 Publishes interdisciplinary research on issues of Government and Policy with an international perspective Committed to a broad range of policy questions not just those related to government and public policy Topics covered include nonstate agents private public collaboration and NGOs nongovernmental organisations All areas of economic social and environmental institutions and policy are included Disciplines from which papers are derived include political science planning geography economics law sociology and public administration

Environmental Justice Clifford Rechtschaffen, Eileen P. Gauna, 2002 Environmental justice is a significant and dynamic contemporary development in environmental law Rechtschaffen and Gauna provide an accessible compilation of interdisciplinary materials for studying environmental justice interspersed with extensive notes comments and questions designed to facilitate classroom discussion It integrates excerpts from empirical studies cases agency decisions informal agency guidance law reviews and other academic literature as well as community generated documents The materials include writings from the fields of environmental law and civil rights law as well as sociology political science and risk assessment The book begins with an examination of various conceptions of justice studies about disparities in environmental harms and benefits and theories concerning the causes of such inequities It then looks at environmental justice in a variety of regulatory contexts including program design standard setting permitting enforcement cleanup and brownfield redevelopment The concluding chapters explore various tools used in the effort to achieve environmental justice including citizen suit enforcement of environmental laws claims brought under the Equal Protection Clause and Title VI of the Civil Rights Act and various non litigation strategies including land use and planning tools disclosure laws and collaborative projects A large chapter is devoted to Native American issues The book is designed for use in a single semester seminar course and each of the 16 chapters roughly corresponds to a week s worth of reading It can also be used as a supplement in other environmental land use or civil rights classes in which the professor wishes to cover selected issues in environmental justice This collection edited by Rechtschaffen and Gauna covers the terrain of environmental justice masterfully Researchers with an interest in environment justice should own this work students will make good use of it as well

Environmental Justice and the Siting of SR-85 and North Gateway Transfer Station Patricia Garland, 2015 It is widely recognized that compared to others minority and low income populations are more exposed to environmental burdens and unwanted land uses like waste facilities To prevent these injustices cities and industry need to recognize these potential problems in the siting process and work to address them I studied Phoenix AZ which has historically suffered from environmental justice issues I examined whether Phoenix considered environmental justice concerns when siting their newest landfill SR 85 and transfer station North Gateway Transfer Station Additionally I assessed current views on sustainability from members of the Phoenix Transportation and Infrastructure Subcommittee and of decision makers in the Public Works Department and Solid Waste Division Using a mixed methods approach consisting of interviews document analysis and a demographic assessment of census tracts I addressed two main research questions 1 Do the distributions and siting processes of environmental burdens from SR 85 and North Gateway Transfer Station constitute a case of environmental injustice according to commonly held definitions 2 Do current Solid Waste and council members on the Transportation and Infrastructure subcommittee consider environmental justice defined as stakeholder engagement to be a part of sustainability The results show that the distribution and siting processes of environmental burdens from these facilities may constitute a case of environmental injustice While city officials do involve stakeholders in siting decisions the effects of this involvement is unclear An analysis of long term demographic data however revealed no significant racial ethnic or economic effects due to the locations of the SR 85 and North Gateway Transfer Station Interviews with current members of the Transportation and Infrastructure Subcommittee Public Works Department and Solid Waste Division indicated that Phoenix's decision makers dont consider environmental justice as part of sustainability However they seem to consider stakeholder engagement as important for decision making To help mitigate future injustices Phoenix needs buffer zone policies for waste facilities and stakeholder engagement policies for decision making to ensure the public is engaged appropriately in all circumstances Enacting these policies will help Phoenix become both a more sustainable city and one in
