Systematic Intervention With Disturbed Children:

Systematic Intervention with Disturbed Children Marvin J. Fine, 2012-12-06 Disturbed children constitute a sizeable and varied percentage of the child population Generally two to three percent have severe longstanding problems and 20 to 30 percent have current more transient problems While preventive efforts are needed it also seems obvious that many children will continue to function in a disturbed and disturbing fashion and will continue to require various kinds of therapeutic interventions These interventions will mainly occur in school and community settings This book attempts to present a picture of some fairly popular models of intervention and to consider important related issues There are probably as many ways of coping with disturbed children as there are creative caring persons attempting to do the coping A growing literature exists on ways of conceptualizing and intervening with such children It was believed by the editor that an organized body of information on these concepts and techniques would prove useful to student and practitioner A danger with such collections is that if they mainly portray novel or atypical techniques while informative the book quickly becomes passe and of limited value This book's focus is on contemporary thought but also on orientations that have stood the test of some time and the stability of the underlying theory

Systematic Intervention with Disturbed Children Marvin J. Fine, 1984-07-31

Handbook of Serious Emotional Disturbance in Children and Adolescents Diane T. Marsh, Mary A. Fristad, 2002-10-23 The only comprehensive work on SED with practical information on diagnosing and treating children with SED Features contributions by leading experts of SED research and practice Includes a foreword by Kay Jamison a nationally recognized author on mental illness

Child Mental Health Practice From the Ecological Perspective Richard L. Munger, 1991-07-31 The ecological perspective is a contextual approach which works at the interface between families and the broader ecology or ecosystem of the child the approach is not new but has not been widely adopted due to the lack of illustrative material available for practitioners Through an approach more descriptive and explanatory than empirical the author shows the clinician or other child care professional why the child's environment is crucial and provides techniques to draw people in the child's environment into the healing process
