Families in Trouble Series: Troubled relationships Catherine S. Chilman, Elam W. Nunnally, Fred M. Cox, 1988 The Pain Principle: Relationships and Reconciliation George Skoglund, 2014-04 To overcome our dependence on systematic sins for relief from emotional pain we must avoid reoccurring emotional pain that opens separation from God We prevent reoccurring emotional pain from happening by replacing emotional disabilities with emotional abilities Emotional disabilities from adverse reactions to emotional injuries include hate unresolved grief unprovoked anger impatience meanness evil intentions unfaithfulness harshness and undisciplined behavior The fruit of the Holy Spirit are the emotional abilities that we need to nurture God pleasing priorities values and behavior Emotional abilities prevent self serving ego anger and greed from disrupting fellowship with God The fruit of the Holy Spirit are love joy peace patience kindness goodness faithfulness gentleness and self control When we have God pleasing emotional abilities our emotional and spiritual growth experiences overcome adverse reactions to emotional injuries The emotional injuries continue to occur but our response as followers of Jesus Christ avoids reoccurring emotional pain We experience emotional renewal that defeats emotional pain when our love for God becomes the humility and compassion we show in our relationships with others Feeling Good Together David D. have been targeted for the implementation of a plethora of initiatives designed to help children and young people lose weight become more active and change their eating patterns inside and outside school Addressing these issues requires an innovative theoretical approach Neither the fields of eating disorders nor obesity research has addressed these issues from a sociological and pedagogical perspective The contributors to this edited collection draw on a range of social theories including Michel Foucault and Basil Bernstein to interpret the data collected across three countries Australia and New Zealand United Kingdom and from a range of primary and secondary schools Each chapter addresses various aspects of the relationship between health imperatives as constituted in government policies school programs and practices their recontextualised in school practices and the impact of this on the subjectivities of children and teachers This book was originally published as a special issue of Discourse Studies in the Cultural Politics of Education Social Psychology and Dysfunctional Behavior Mark R. Leary, Rowland S. Miller, 2012-12-06 A colleague recently recounted a conversation she had had with a group of graduate students For reasons that she cannot recall the discussion had turned to the topic of old fashioned ideas in psychology perspectives and beliefs that had once enjoyed widespread support but that are now regarded as quaint curiosities The students racked their brains to outdo one of the historical trivia of psychology Le Bon's another with their knowledge fascination with the group mind Mesmer's theory of animal magnetism the short lived popularity of moral therapy Descartes belief that erections are maintained by air from the lungs and so on When it came his turn to contribute to the discussion one student brought up an enigmatic journal he had seen in the library stacks the Journal of Abnormal and Social Psychology He thought that the inclusion of abnormal and social psychology within the covers of a single journal seemed an odd combination and he wondered aloud what sort of historical quirk had led psychologists of an earlier generation to regard these two fields as somehow related Our colleague then asked her students if they had any ideas about how such an odd combination had found its way into a single journal Will You Still Need Me? Angela Brown Miller Ph.D., 2010-04-09 This insightful and moving book looks at how people of various ages view the process of aging and the social and emotional perspectives it evokes Will You Still Need Me Feeling Wanted Loved and Meaningful as We Age is a touching and incisive book organized around interviews with individuals of various ages who have responded to questions about aging The interviewees offer their unguarded thoughts about aging with a significant other or alone They reveal their self perceptions their feelings about the future their self image as it relates to aging and their expectations and impressions of aging itself They also share their concerns that with aging comes not only possible loneliness but also meaninglessness and even uselessness Psychotherapist Angela Browne Miller weaves the findings into a philosophical research based overview of cross generational concerns and feelings about aging Her book opens a window into the hearts and minds of our parents our peers and our children as they look at the aging process and at how individuals society and families treat aging Through the sensitive up close and personal bird's eye view of the people interviewed for this book aging unfolds into a

Fixing Relationships Through Joint Action Robert E. Kaplan, 1983 When a work relationship comes down with a problem why is it so uncommon for the parties affected to talk the problem through Why do the people so much prefer to swallow their discontent or ventilate it to friends instead of taking it to the source Why is confronting relationship problems as aversive a task for managers as giving a performance appraisal to a marginally performing subordinate The answers are not as simple as the questions may imply and this paper is devoted to explaining why people in organizations avoid their interpersonal problems and how confrontation can be used to repair work relationships
