legislature has laid the groundwork for Florida school districts through a focus on equality to take advantage of a portfolio management model to increase student achievement Although a focus on equality led to the enactment of various school choice options some of these options have moved away from their original intent to financially benefit specific organizations and groups Finally as reported by Holme Frankenberg Diem and Welton 2013 Florida s charter school virtual education and home education policies have been enacted as race neutral policies that have no regard for diversity which could lead to resegregation
