Using Credit To Sell More:

The Economics of Instalment Selling: Credit Risks Edwin Robert Anderson Seligman,1927 Rating Based Modeling of Credit Risk Stefan Trueck,Svetlozar T. Rachev,2009-01-15 In the last decade rating based models have become very popular in credit risk management These systems use the rating of a company as the decisive variable to evaluate the default risk of a bond or loan The popularity is due to the straightforwardness of the approach and to the upcoming new capital accord Basel II which allows banks to base their capital requirements on internal as well as external rating systems Because of this sophisticated credit risk models are being developed or demanded by banks to assess the risk of their credit portfolio better by recognizing the different underlying sources of risk As a consequence not only default probabilities for certain rating categories but also the probabilities of moving from one rating state to another are important issues in such models for risk management and pricing It is widely accepted that rating migrations and default probabilities show significant variations through time due to macroeconomics conditions or the business cycle These changes in migration behavior may have a substantial impact on the value at risk VAR of a credit portfolio or the prices of credit derivatives such as collateralized debt obligations D CDOs In Rating Based Modeling of Credit Risk the authors develop a much more sophisticated analysis of migration behavior Their contribution of more sophisticated techniques to measure and forecast changes in migration behavior as well as determining adequate estimators for transition matrices is a major contribution to rating based credit modeling Internal ratings based systems are widely used in banks to calculate their value at risk VAR in order to determine their capital requirements for loan and bond portfolios under Basel II One aspect of these ratings systems is credit migrations addressed in a systematic and comprehensive way for the first time in this book The book is based on in depth work by Trueck and Rachev Universal Default: How to Deal With Credit Challenges , The Economics of Instalment Selling Edwin Robert Anderson Seligman,1927 Regulating Consumer Credit Great Britain: National Audit Office,2012-12-19 UK consumers borrowed 176 billion in 2011 12 from credit card companies small businesses offering hire purchase arrangements and payday lenders The NAO estimates the Office of Fair Trading saved consumers 8 60 for every 1 it spent on enforcing regulations in 2010 11 by taking action against non compliant firms During the same period nevertheless consumers lost at least 450 million from problems that regulation did not address such as malpractice by firms that was not reported to the regulator Consumers can also make poor choices themselves The OFT is not resourced to carry out on a day to day basis either the supervision of firms or the monitoring of their compliance with licence standards This means it can act only when it receives information of non compliant behaviour by a firm Therefore some harm must already have taken place in order to prevent further losses to consumers The OFT funds consumer credit regulation solely from licence fees and today s report shows it had 11 5 million to regulate the market in 2011 12 which is not enough Furthermore weaknesses in the OFT s management information mean it cannot be sure these limited resources are being targeted to the areas of greatest risk to consumers The OFT's limited understanding of the costs of enforcement means it does not have an accurate picture of the proportion of its budget which is spent on different activities In addition the OFT does not collect information on the level of lending provided by each firm and therefore does not have a quantified understanding of the supply in the market
