Walklate, 2023-11-30 This book maps the problems and possibilities of the policies and practices designed to tackle violence against women in the domestic sphere over the last 40 years In 2018 the United Nations declared the home the most dangerous place for women around the world and in early April 2020 the United Nations Population Fund predicted that for every three months that government enforced lockdowns in response to coronavirus an additional 15 million cases of domestic violence would occur worldwide This book asks the simple yet critical question how can governments best ensure women's safety in the twenty first century Taking its title from Elizabeth Wilson's 1983 book and her three level approach of considering the role of social policy the law and ideology Fitz Gibbon and Walklate draw on their expertise of femicide domestic abuse and family violence to examine the salience of global and local policy and practice responses to such violence s and to ask timely questions about the ongoing value of the recourse to the criminal law for twenty first century policy Comparative in orientation appreciative of the importance of geographical and social context and committed to understanding the historical processes that continue to frame policy responses this book takes a long hard look at what has and has not been achieved in relation to domestic abuse and family violence and seeks to challenge all that has come to be taken for granted in responding to such violence s Published in the 40th Anniversary of Elizabeth Wilson s ground breaking contribution this book is destined to become a classic in its own right It is essential reading for all those engaged in feminist criminology gender and crime family and domestic violence and violence against women Ending the Cycle of Violence Einat Peled, Peter G. Understanding and Charting Our Progress Toward the Prevention of Woman Abuse Linda MacLeod,Canada. Family Violence Prevention Division,1994 This document analyzes a broad sample of the projects funded by the Family Violence Prevention Division exploring how these projects have contributed to knowledge about and progress toward prevention The three main goals of the report are to elaborate on what the projects analyzed teach us about prevention to describe in a qualitative way how projects funded by the Family Violence Prevention Division have added to preventive efforts around woman abuse in terms of their contribution to what works and their contribution to reducing barriers to prevention and to elaborate on the findings from these projects in order to suggest directions for future activities by the Family Violence Prevention Division related to the prevention of woman abuse as well as needed directions that fall outside the responsibilities of the division In addition the report examines the projects analyzed in the context of the broader Health Canada mandate related to family violence and the Federal Family Violence Initiative The Domestic Assault of Women Donald G. Dutton,1995 The Domestic Assault of Women provides a comprehensive look at the causes and effects of wife assault and its relationship to criminal justice policy Thoroughly revised to reflect the recent explosion of research interest in family violence the book explores the psychology of the male who assaults his intimate partner and the dynamics of the victim abuser relationship which so frequently leads to the question Why does she stay Donald G Dutton a leading authority on wife assault takes a fresh look at many of the questions posed in the original edition of the book updating them with the latest research findings The present edition includes an expanded history of social policy towards family violence as well as new chapters on the abusive personality and on traumatic bonding and the battered woman syndrome Dutton also examines important new research on the efficacy of arrest and treatment of batterers he points to a disturbing increase in the level of violence in dating relationships Comprehensive in its coverage The Domestic Assault of Women is the product of the author's twenty years of experience working with batterers battered women police and academic researchers By looking at its root causes Dutton argues that domestic assault is not just a family problem but a problem for all society Taking the Next Step to Stop Woman Abuse Linda MacLeod,Dianne Kinnon,National Clearinghouse on Family Violence (Canada),Canada. Family Violence Prevention Division,1996 This report suggests that recognition of violence against women as a health issue as well as the central involvement and contribution of the health sector is critical to bringing about change in order to eliminate violence Evidence is cited regarding the use of health services by abused women and their desire for services to respond to their full range of needs not those just directly related to abuse A brief historical overview shows the evolution of the responses to women abuse across Canada from a primary emphasis on treatment and intervention in the 1970s to a health promotion emphasis in recent years The report then examines violence against women in the context of two approaches one considering all conditions that contribute to health a population health model and another that looks at violence prevention
