Coalition Politics and Cabinet Decision Making Juliet Kaarbo, 2012-04-17 Every day coalition cabinets make policy decisions critical to international politics Juliet Kaarbo examines the dynamics of these multiparty cabinets in parliamentary democracies in order to assess both the quality of coalition decision making and the degree to which coalitions tend to favor peaceful or military solutions Are coalition cabinets so riddled by conflict that they cannot make foreign policy effectively or do the multiple voices represented in the cabinet create more legitimate and imaginative responses to the international system Do political and institutional constraints inherent to coalition cabinets lead to nonaggressive policies Or do institutional and political forces precipitate more belligerent behavior Employing theory from security studies and political psychology as well as a combination of quantitative cross national analyses and twelve qualitative comparative case studies of foreign policy made by coalition cabinets in Japan the Netherlands and Turkey Kaarbo identifies the factors that generate highly aggressive policies inconsistency and other policy outcomes Her findings have implications not merely for foreign policy but for all types of decision making and policy making by coalition governments
