Stott, 2008-11-15 This book examines the character and function of the documents mentioned in the biblical texts in relation to comparable references in literature from wider antiquity Citing various references to written documents in the Hebrew Bible Stott takes into consideration both those references that may point to external sources for example the many literary citations in the books of Kings and

Chronicles as well as certain other documents that play a role in the narrative such as the book of the law in 2 Kings the scrolls of Jeremiah and the tablets of the law The aim of this study is not to determine to which texts external to the world of the narrative if any these documents refer or to identify the content of these documents or to reconstruct their origins and historical development Instead the primary focus is to understand these references within their literary context asking why indeed they are mentioned at all and what purpose they serve in the narrative regardless of whether they existed or not in the external world or whether the stories about them have basis in historical reality as it happened
