Interdisciplinary Approaches to the Structure and Performance of Interdependent Autonomous Human Machine Teams and Systems (A-HMT-S) William Frere Lawless,Donald Sofge,Daniel M. Lofaro,2023-03-30 Rational Choice and Strategic Conflict Gabriel Frahm,2026-03-16 The principal aim of this book is to reconcile game and decision theory within the subjectivist framework of rational choice Traditional game theory grounded in objectivist decision theory shows clear limitations in explaining human behavior By contrast subjectivist decision theory appears far better suited to describe and anticipate decision making in real life situations of rational choice and strategic conflict The author extends Savage s groundbreaking approach to rational choice through a rigorous application of counterfactual reasoning This principle is likewise employed to address strategic conflicts in a concise manner departing from the ubiquitous equilibrium doctrine To this end he distinguishes between static dynamic and coherent games The latter is new to game theory and describes situations in which all players know what the others are going to do This gives rise to strategic interaction an aspect largely overlooked in traditional game theory The presented insights differ essentially from those obtained in traditional game theory To facilitate a better understanding of the theoretical developments alternative concepts of game theory are also examined These comprise not only the objectivist approach but also the epistemic approach and the theory of moves The author concludes with a discussion of profound philosophical questions concerning determinism freedom of choice and causality all of which are closely related to the subject matter The book thus offers a fresh and modern perspective on game and decision theory A Strategy of Interdependence, a Program for the Control Between the United States and the Soviet Union Vincent P. Rock,1964 German-Chinese M&A Transactions in the SME Sector Daniel Graewe,2023-03-25 M A transactions

are significantly more complex processes than the mere purchase and sale of goods SMEs can quickly find themselves in unfamiliar territory especially when it comes to multi layered activities with players from completely different cultures especially from China as Germany's largest foreign trade partner The need for knowledge in practice is correspondingly great This edited volume therefore brings together on a theoretical basis the practical knowledge needed for the successful planning implementation and integration of German Chinese corporate takeovers in the SME sector After a compact presentation of the economic background cultural aspects of negotiation and regulatory framework conditions the course of corporate transactions and their German Chinese peculiarities are dealt with in detail The book concludes with a guide to the core aspects of such transactions and an exemplary presentation of case studies In generally understandable language and well illustrated the success factors as well as possible stumbling blocks are revealed A clearly structured and cleverly formulated handbook that every player should have at hand

Networks of Nations Zeev Maoz, 2010-12-06 Maoz views the evolution of international relations over the last two centuries as a set of interacting cooperative and conflicting networks of states The networks that emerged are the result of national choice processes about forming or breaking ties with other states States are constantly concerned with their security and survival in an anarchic world Their security concerns stem from their external environment and their past conflicts Because many of them cannot ensure their security by their own power they need allies to balance against a hostile international environment The alliance choices made by states define the structure of security cooperation networks and spill over into other cooperative networks including trade and institutions Maoz tests his theory by applying social networks analysis SNA methods to international relations He offers a novel perspective as a system of interrelated networks that co evolve and interact with one another
