Baeza-Yates, University of Waterloo. Dept. of Computer Science, Régnier, Mireille, 1989 Abstract We present an analysis of Horspool's variant of the Boyer Moore string matching algorithm Although this algorithm is very simple the analysis is not The searching time is linear An exact expression of the linearity constant c is derived It is proven to be asymptotically formula where q is the cardinality of the alphabet We exhibit a stationary process and reduce the problem to one of word enumeration The same technique may be used to analyze other variants of the Boyer Moore algorithm Algorithms on Strings Source Wikipedia, 2013-09 Please note that the content of this book primarily consists of articles available from Wikipedia or other free sources online Pages 49 Chapters String searching algorithm Phonetic algorithm Metaphone Rabin Karp string search algorithm Longest common subsequence problem Knuth Morris Pratt algorithm Suffix tree Smith Waterman algorithm Parsing Levenshtein distance Boyer Moore string search algorithm Damerau Levenshtein distance Trim Longest increasing subsequence Approximate string matching Needleman Wunsch algorithm Bitap algorithm Soundex Jaro Winkler distance Suffix array Longest common substring problem Boyer Moore Horspool algorithm Hirschberg's algorithm Aho Corasick string matching algorithm Match Rating Approach Daitch Mokotoff Soundex Generalised suffix tree String metric Caverphone New York State Identification and Intelligence System String to string correction problem Shortest common supersequence Ukkonen's algorithm Signature files Maximal pair Levenshtein automaton Substring index Apostolico Giancarlo algorithm Hunt McIlroy algorithm Edit distance Partial word FM index Longest repeated substring problem Zhu Takaoka string matching algorithm Generating strings Wagner Fischer edit distance Pattern Matching Algorithms Alberto Apostolico, Zvi Galil, 1997-05-29 Issues of matching and searching on elementary discrete structures arise

pervasively in computer science and many of its applications and their relevance is expected to grow as information is amassed and shared at an accelerating pace Several algorithms were discovered as a result of these needs which in turn created the subfield of Pattern Matching This book provides an overview of the current state of Pattern Matching as seen by specialists who have devoted years of study to the field It covers most of the basic principles and presents material advanced enough to faithfully portray the current frontier of research Because of these recent advances this is the right time for a book that brings together information relevant to both graduate students and specialists in need of an in depth reference

String Matching Algorithms Simon Mo. Chong,1995 String Matching Algorithms and Automata Imre Simon,1994 Abstract In this paper we study the structure of finite automata recognizing sets of the form A^p for some word p and use the results obtained to improve the Knuth Morris Pratt string searching algorithm We also determine the average number of nontrivial edges of the above automata Computer Algorithms Jun-ichi Aoe,1994 Introduces the basic concepts and characteristics of string pattern matching strategies and provides numerous references for further reading An Introductory Guide to EC Competition Law and Practice Valentine Korah,1994 A fast string searching algorithm Robert S. Boyer,J. Strother Moore,1976 An algorithm is presented that searches for the location i of the first occurrence of a character string pat in another string $string$ During the search operation the characters of pat are matched starting with the last character of pat The information gained by starting the match at the end of the pattern often allows the algorithm to proceed in large jumps through the text being searched Thus the algorithm has the unusual property that in most cases not all of the first i characters of $string$ are inspected The number of characters actually inspected on the average decreases as a function of the length of pat For a random English pattern of length 5 the algorithm will typically inspect $i - 4$ characters of $string$ before finding a match at i Furthermore the algorithm has been implemented so that on the average fewer than $i \cdot patlen$ machine instructions are executed These conclusions are supported with empirical evidence and a theoretical analysis of the average behavior of the algorithm The worst case behavior of the algorithm is linear in $i \cdot patlen$ Author Algorithms and Data Structures ,1997 Algorithms and Computation ,1994 Proceedings ,1993 ISTCS DEGREES93 was sponsored by the Israel Academy of Sciences and Humanities and held in Natanya Israel June 1993 In addition to the 32 papers reporting on recent research the proceedings include the three invited talks on efficient interactive proofs and applications to approximation Shafi G Data Structures and Algorithms John Beidler,1997 This textbook provides an in depth course on data structures in the context of object oriented development Its main themes are abstraction implementation encapsulation and measurement that is that the software process begins with abstraction of data types which then lead to alternate representations and encapsulation and finally to resource measurement A clear object oriented approach making use of Booch components will provide readers with a useful library of data structure components and experience in software reuse Students using this book are expected to have a reasonable understanding of the basic logical structures such as stacks and queues Throughout Ada 95 is used and the author takes full advantage of Ada's encapsulation features and the ability to present specifications without implementational details Ada code is supported by two suites available over the World Wide Web

Combinatorial Pattern Matching Maxime Crochemore, Dan Gusfield, 1994 This volume presents the proceedings of the Fifth Annual Symposium on Combinatorial Pattern Matching held at Asilomar California in June 1994 The 26 selected papers in this volume are organized in chapters on Alignments Various Matchings Combinatorial Aspects and Bio Informatics Combinatorial Pattern Matching addresses issues of searching and matching of strings and more complicated patterns as for example trees The goal is to derive non trivial combinatorial properties for such structures and then to exploit these properties in order to achieve superior performance for the corresponding computational problems In recent years combinatorial pattern matching has developed into a full fledged area of algorithmics and is expected to grow even further during the next years PUBLISHER'S WEBSITE Combinatorial Pattern Matching, 2005

Data Structures & Their Algorithms Harry R. Lewis, Larry Denenberg, 1991 Using only practically useful techniques this book teaches methods for organizing reorganizing exploring and retrieving data in digital computers and the mathematical analysis of those techniques The authors present analyses that are relatively brief and non technical but illuminate the important performance characteristics of the algorithms Data Structures and Their Algorithms covers algorithms not the expression of algorithms in the syntax of particular programming languages The authors have adopted a pseudocode notation that is readily understandable to programmers but has a simple syntax
