Under New Ownership Privatizing Chinas Enterprises:

Under New Ownership Stanford University Press, Shahid Yusuf, Kaoru Nabeshima, Dwight H. Perkins, 2005-11-15 Although China's centrally planned economy is a little more than a shadow of its former self the closely inter linked reforms of the enterprise and banking sectors are still incomplete The relative size of the state owned enterprise sector has been much reduced however the sector remains the dominant borrower from the banking system and is responsible for the majority of bank non performing assets Thus in the interests of financial stability it is crucial to implement the remaining reform agenda The accession to the WTO has also made it more urgent for China's most dynamic state owned enterprises and her banking industry to compete through innovation continuing process upgrades and active pursuit of strategies aimed at succeeding in global markets In order to do so not only do large state owned industrial enterprises need to be privatized but the government also needs to create the conditions that will result in market determined consolidation of small and medium size firms into entities with a core strength Under New Ownership explores the effects of ownership reform in China on the performance of reformed industrial state owned enterprises and proposes privatization as a course of action to truly transform these enterprises into world class firms which compete on the basis of sound strategy effective organization and innovation It draws upon newly collected firm level survey data to assess changes in the ownership structure of state enterprises on management governance innovation and performance relative to other types of firms in China This title provides researchers students and policymakers interested in the Chinese economy with in depth information and analysis on key issues related to the reform of state owned enterprises Under New Ownership Shahid Yusuf, 2006

Under New Ownership Shahid Yusuf, Kaoru Nabeshima, Dwight Heald Perkins, 2006 This publication examines China's reform agenda for the privatisation of state owned enterprises and surveys the results of privatisation measures in other industrialising economies It draws upon recent survey data to assess changes in the ownership structure of state enterprises on management governance innovation and performance relative to other types of firms in China Under New Ownership Connie Boswell, Shahid Yusuf, 1977

State-Led Privatization in China Jin Zeng, 2013-10-01 Large scale privatization did not emerge spontaneously in China in the late 1990s Rather the Chinese state led and carefully planned ownership transformation with timetables and measurable privatization quotas not for the purpose of extracting the state from the economy but in order to strengthen the rule of the Party While it is widely believed that authoritarian regimes are better suited than democracies to carry out economic reform this book provides a more nuanced understanding of reform in China demonstrating that the Chinese state's capacity to impose unpopular reform is contingent on its control over local state agents and its adaptability to societal demands Building on rich fieldwork data gathered in three Chinese cities Shenyang Shanghai and Xiamen this book offers the first comparative study of China's privatization processes at the local level Instead of focusing solely on political elites Jin Zeng adopts a multi level interaction approach to examine how the complex interplay of the central leadership grassroots officials and state owned enterprise managers and workers shaped the contour of privatization in China The book advances three central arguments First local economic structure and cadre evaluation system mediated local officials incentives to initiate privatization Second local officials relied on mobilization campaigns and various appeasement measures to implement privatization Finally the dynamics of privatization were fundamentally driven by the central government s reactions to social opposition and by the subsequent responses of local officials to the changed political regulatory environment As a detailed analysis of the dual transformation of the property regime and state society relations in China this book will be invaluable to students and scholars of Chinese politics economic reform as well as those interested in comparative political economy and economic development more broadly

Shareholding System Reform in China

Shuyun Ma,2010-01-01 This insightful book demonstrates how China has emerged as one of the world s largest privatizing countries within a decade Since the 1980s there has been a global wave of transfer of state assets to private hands China is a relatively late participant in this worldwide trend yet in the last decade it has emerged as one of the largest privatizing countries Shu Yun Ma argues that China s privatization is not based on any grand blueprint rather it is privatization by groping for stones to cross the river a well known metaphor often attributed to Deng Xiaoping meaning that the reform simply proceeds on a trial and error basis without being guided by any theory With original case studies including one on China s first industrial shareholding enterprise this informative book will be of great interest to the academic community China observers and policymakers as well as financial analysts
