The Family Factor:

Family Factors and the Educational Success of Children William Jaynes, 2014-02-25 Family Factors and the Educational Success of Children addresses a wide range of family variables and a diverse array of family situations in order to understand the dynamics of the multifaceted relationship between family realities and educational outcomes of children. It provides research on building effective partnerships between parents and teaches the importance of parental style, parental involvement as a means of improving family life, the influence of family factors on children of color, and the role of religion in influencing family and educational dynamics. This book is a valuable resource for academics, family scientists, social workers, psychologists, parents, and students. The book contains research on a full variety of issues which will provide insight into a wide range of practical matters regarding the influence of the family. The research methodology included in this book includes examining large data sets, case studies, research syntheses, and other student surveys. As a result of reading this book, individuals will have greater insight into how a multitudinous number of family factors ultimately influence the educational success of children, whether that is experienced directly or indirectly. This book was published as a double special issue of Marriage and Family Review. Readiness and Family Factors Laurel W. Oliver, 1991 Family Factors Affecting Retention Rose Marie Etheridge, 1989 Factors That Affect Succession in African-American Family-Owned Business Charles W. Hunt, 2012-03 A great deal of literature confirms the fact that small family owned businesses rarely extend beyond the founder of the business. This study explored and identified factors that helped to create a successful family business transition for two African American family owned businesses in the San Antonio area. One family experienced working through a well thought out succession plan that successfully passed the mantle from one generation to the next, while the other family experienced going through an unexpected, unplanned business succession that was also successful. Understanding the factors that help create a successful family business transition is difficult because there is very little scholarly research that has an in depth focus on the African American family business. The research design used was a Phenomenological Qualitative Historical Case Study. The findings revealed that both families' success may be attributed to factors such as being raised by both of their parents and being taught family values, hard work, responsibility, and accountability. Self preservation, the first law of nature, was taught to make them aware of the importance of taking care of self first so they could take care of others. As children, they watched their parents at work, which gave them the opportunity to shape and mold their own work ethic with a strong family influence. Most of the children in both families were socialized into the family business and never worked elsewhere. Both families were very active in church and made the church the center of their social life. All of the family members had mentors and/or role models as a child at school and at work. The researcher concludes that it is important to note a plan for succession should consist of three elements, all of which must precede the actual succession by a few months. A plan for succession occurred in one case; however, in the second case, it occurred several months after succession took place The Family ,1930 Time Factors in the Business of Homemaking in Rural Rhode Island Margaret Whittemore,1929 The Psycho-analytic Study of the Family John Carl Flugel,1921 The Power of the Family Paul Pearsall,1991-09 Feeding the Family Mary Swartz Rose,1916 The Family in the Making Mary Burt Messer,1928 Eugenics as a factor in the prevention of mental disease Horatio Milo Pollock,1921 The Family Food Thomas Clay O'Donnell,1911 Problems in Sales Management University of Michigan.
