of various types of coastal environment with tourism development. The resulting generalisations are expected to be applied elsewhere.

TOURISM AND ENVIRONMENT Environment has various meanings for tourism. In its broadest sense the environment includes all natural and cultural elements as in OECD's 1981 definition to encompass the natural, built and cultural aspects. This holistic approach is encouraged in understanding the potential impacts arising from tourism. A narrower meaning of environment is the natural and built environment as used by Cohen (1978) and Inskeep (1991: 339). Environment can also be restricted to the natural or physical environment in order to distinguish it from the economic and social aspects of tourism as used by tourism researchers e.g. Mathieson and Wall (1982), Pearce (1989). This approach is used predominantly in this volume. Various relationships between tourism and the physical aspects of the coast are discussed. There are basic relationships between environment and tourism. Tourism is environmentally dependent and the environment is vulnerable to the impact of tourism.

Tourism Development in India Leela Shelley, 1991

Sport Tourism Development James Higham, Tom Hinch, 2018-04-23. This book critically explores sport-related tourism drawing on the fields of sport management, the sociology of sport, consumer behaviour, sports marketing, economic, urban and sports geography and tourism studies. It presents multidisciplinary perspectives of sport tourism as structured by the geographical concepts of space, place and environment. The volume offers a comprehensive update of the discussions presented in the two previous editions, recognising the significant growth in sub-elite participation sports and addresses spectator-based sport events, participation-based sport events, active sport and sport heritage activities. It aims to advance theoretical thinking on the subject of sport tourism development and critical thinking on the interplay of local and global forces in sport and tourism development. It continues to be an important text for students and researchers in tourism studies, human geography, sports geography, sociology of sport, sports management, sports marketing and history of sport.

Tourism Development in Europe World Tourism Organization, 2007. This publication contains the proceedings of two UNWTO conferences on Tourism: a Tool for Sustainable Development in Transitional Economies held in Belgrade on 20-21 June 2005 and Impact of European Union Enlargement on Tourism Development in Europe held in Vilnius on 1-2 March 2006. There is an overlap between economies in transition and the group of countries that joined the European Union in 2004 and from the perspective of tourism development a large group of European countries share similar challenges and opportunities. While Europe is the region that receives the largest number of international tourists and registers the highest amount of receipts from international tourism, there is a great difference between traditional destinations with a long history of tourism development and the countries that recovered independence after the collapse of the Soviet Union. Some countries already undertook major reforms in their political and economic spheres while others are still addressing structural issues inherited from the past. Tourism contributes positively to European integration and at the same time its success depends on the development and modernisation of several economic and social sectors      Tourism Economics, the Environment and Development Clement Allan Tisdell,2001
