Trade In Services And Developing Countries:

Trade in Services and Developing Countries Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 1989

International Trade in Services Olivier Cattaneo, 2010 International trade in services also provides an assessment of how policy makers can further bolster their service industries by leveraging the changes prompted by technological advancements The book provides policy recommendations that include the reduction of barriers to services trade across all sectors and the promotion of health and environment related development policies that should be promoted in parallel with a burgeoning services market The first recommendation is considered the most important because it focuses on the need to ensure trade openness which helps ensure the access to services and promotes the quality of services provision through foreign and domestic competition Moreover the issue of temporary movement of labor is another focus of this book given that it is one of the most important means of service exports for developing countries This is an issue that is considered technically complex and politically sensitive because of its political and security implications The book examines mechanisms that have been used by various countries to liberalize the temporary movement of persons and concludes that regardless of the negotiating forum multilateral regional or bilateral the policy making results on temporary movement of labor are so far modest and limited to a small range of categories However it proposes alternative ways to move forward that require further analysis by countries and relevant international organizations including the World Bank

Trade in Services Negotiations Sebasti©Łn S©Łez, 2010 Services negotiations are an integral element in designing and implementing programs to liberalize and deregulate trade unilaterally bilaterally and multilaterally in both developing and advanced economies This book is especially valuable for its insights into the strategy and consequences of services negotiations and for the practical information that can help to guide negotiators in carrying out and assessing their policy objectives Robert M Stern Professor of Economics and Public Policy University of Michigan Successful trade policies and services sector reforms are about content design and implementations This book is an additional yet exclusive contribution from the World Bank Group to trade policy making The book dwells on flexible methodologies practical recommendations and tools to address the needs of developing countries in a simple and accessible manner Osvaldo Rosales Director International Trade and Integration Division United Nations ECLAC Former Chilean Chief Trade Negotiator It has been only recently that the subject of services has been added to the trade negotiating agenda The very concept of trade in services was developed during the Uruguay Round of trade negotiations The sheer novelty and complexity of the subject matter presents trade negotiators with important challenges The translation of policy reforms into possible commitments the coordination of positions in capitals among diverse agencies ministries and stakeholders and the development of negotiating strategies are among the most prominent challenges This book is an important contribution to the efforts of governments and international organizations to build and enhance negotiating capacity in a way that helps governments and negotiators achieve their objectives It also offers sound assistance for the conduct of the negotiations themselves Hamid Mamdouh Director of the Trade in Services Division World Trade Organization International Trade in Services Mr.Alexander Lehmann,Mr.Jaroslaw Wieczorek,Ms.Natalia T. Tamirisa,2003-12-01 This paper reviews the characteristics of international trade in services and of the World Trade Organization s General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS framework which was established to regulate it Further liberalization of services trade in developing countries as currently envisaged in the context of the WTO Doha Development Agenda holds a number of potential benefits such as underpinning the liberalization of goods trade but it is also being resisted due to its potential adjustment costs Two implications for IMF activities are examined coherence among the three principal international economic institutions and sequencing with macroeconomic stabilization and regulatory reforms

A Handbook of International Trade in Services Aaditya Mattoo,Robert M. Stern,Gianni Zanini,2007-11-22 International trade and investment in services are an increasingly important part of global commerce Advances in information and telecommunication technologies have expanded the scope of services that can be traded cross border Many countries now allow foreign investment in newly privatized and competitive markets for key infrastructure services such as energy telecommunications and transport More and more people are travelling abroad to consume tourism education and medical services and to supply services ranging from construction to software development In fact services are the fastest growing components of the global economy and trade and foreign direct investment FDI in services have grown faster than in goods over the past decade and a half International transactions however continue to be impeded by policy barriers especially to foreign investment and the movement of service providing individuals Developing countries in particular are likely to benefit significantly from further domestic liberalization and the elimination of barriers to their exports In many instances income gains from a reduction in protection to services may be far greater than from trade liberalization in goods In light of the increasing importance of international trade in services and the inclusion of services issues on the agendas of the multilateral regional and bilateral trade negotiations there is an obvious need to understand the economic implications of services trade and liberalization A Handbook of International Trade in Services provides a comprehensive introduction to the subject making it an essential reference for trade officials policy advisors analysts academics and students Beginning with an overview on the key issues in trade in services and discussion of the GATS the book then looks at trade negotiations in the service sector the barriers to trade in services and concludes by looking at a number of specific service sectors such as financial services e commerce health services and the temporary movement of workers Liberalizing International Trade in Services Matthias Lücke,Dean Spinanger,2004 Exporting Services Arti Grover Goswami,Aaditya Mattoo,Sebastian Saez,2012 The past two decades have seen exciting changes with developing countries emerging as exporters of services Technological developments now make it easier to trade services across borders But other avenues are being exploited tourists visit not just to sightsee but also to be treated and educated service providers move abroad under innovative new schemes and some developing countries defy traditional notions by investing abroad in services Exporting Services A Developing Country Perspective takes a brave approach combining exploratory econometric analysis with detailed case studies of representative countries Brazil Chile the Arab Republic of Egypt India Kenya Malaysia and the Philippines Two questions lead the analysis How did these developing countries succeed in exporting services What policy mix was successful and what strategies did not deliver the expected results The analysis evaluates the role of three sets of factors First the fundamentals which include a country s factor endowments infrastructure and institutional quality second policies affecting trade investment and labor mobility in services and third proactive policies in services designed to promote exports or investment The case studies illustrate the complex nature of reforms and policy making in the service sector as well as the benefits of well implemented reforms Although success seems to be explained by a set of conditions that are difficult to replicate common features can also be identified Several countries have adopted policies to support exports especially exports of information technology related services This resource will be valuable for policy makers experts and academics who are engaged in efforts to reform service and investment policies in their own country

Research Handbook on Trade in Services Pierre Sauvé, Martin Roy, 2016-09-30 This Research Handbook explores the latest frontiers in services trade by drawing on insights from empirical economics law and global political economy The world s foremost experts take stock of the learning done to date in services trade explore policy questions bedeviling analysts and direct attention to a host of issues old and new confronting those interested in the service economy and its rising salience in cross border exchange The Handbook s 22 chapters shed informed analytical light on a subject matter whose substantive remit continues to be shaped by rapid evolutions in technology data gathering market structures consumer preferences approaches to regulation and by ongoing shifts in the frontier between the market and the state

Protection and Trade in Services Bernard M. Hoekman, Carlos Alberto Primo Braga, 1997

Trade in Services Greg McGuire, United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, 2002 The service sector is the most important sector for most developed economies being the largest contributor to gross domestic product production and employment Developing economies on the other hand have a comparative advantage in labor services however the export of many of these services is limited by many restrictions on the temporary movement of labor imposed through domestic regulation This study provides a comprehensive overview of the international trade in services focusing on market access in foreign markets It also explains how developing economies are dealing with the issue of trade restrictions so as to spur development of the service sector

All about Promoting Trade in Services Dorothy I. Riddle, 2007 This one stop source guide to the various materials on services exporting provides a listing of practical publications and tools with directions on how to access them each section of the handbook highlights resources particular to a specific topic in the area of services exports followed by a short assessment questionnaire to be completed for measuring a country s national performance in supporting services exports all sections contain examples of material and strategies that can be used in working on services export promotion it also provides a summary of what have been found to be the most important best practices in this domain

International Migration and Economic Development Robert E. B. Lucas,2005-01-01 This accessible and topical book offers insights to policy makers in both industrialized and developing countries as well as to scholars and researchers of economics development international relations and to specialists in migration

BOOK JACKET Global Economic Prospects and the Developing Countries,2002 This edition of the annual publication considers the need to reshape the global architecture of world trade in order to help strengthen the economies of developing countries and reduce world poverty The report focuses on four policy areas the establishment of a development round of WTO negotiations to reduce trade barriers global co operation to expand trade outside the WTO the adoption of pro trade development policies by high income countries and enacting trade reforms in developing countries The findings of the report suggest that developing countries could significantly increase their incomes if all countries progressively implement the proposed trade reforms This would result in a world with a much higher standard of living an estimated 300 million people lifted out of poverty by 2015 and a significant increase in the number of children living beyond their fifth birthday throughout the developing world

GATT Uruguay Round, Developing Countries & Trade in Services Neela Mukherjee,1995 The World Trade Organization and Trade in Services Kern Alexander,Mads Andenas,2007-12-31 The World Trade Organisation plays the primary role in regulating international trade in goods services and intellectual property Traditionally international trade law and regulation has been analysed primarily from the trade in goods perspective Services are becoming an important competence for the WTO The institutional legal and regulatory influence of the General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS on domestic economic policymaking is attracting increasing attention in the academic and policymaking literature The growing importance of services trade to the global economy makes the application of the GATS to trade in services an important concern of international economic policy The GATS contains important innovations that build on the former GATT and existing WTO GATT trade regime for goods This book fills a void in the academic and policymaking literature by examining how the GATS governs international trade in services and its growing impact on the regulatory practice of WTO member states It offers a unique discussion of the major issues confronting WTO member states by analysing the GATS and related international trade issues from a variety of perspectives that include law political economy regulation and business Moreover the role of the WTO in promoting liberalised trade and economic development has come under serious strain because of the breakdown of the Doha Development Round negotiations The book analyses the issues in the Doha services debate with some suggested policy approaches that might help build a more durable GATS framework The book is a welcomed addition to the WTO literature and will serve as a point of reference for academics policymakers and practitioners

Medical Tourism in Developing Countries M. Bookman,2007-08-06 Western patients are increasingly travelling to developing countries for health care and developing countries are increasingly offering their skills and facilities to paying foreign customers The potential and implications of this international trade in medical services is explored in this book through analysis of the market Services for Trade Competitiveness Claire H. Hollweg, Sebastián Sáez, 2019-07-15 Recognizing that services affect the ability of countries and their firms to compete on international markets the World Bank's Trade and Regional Integration Unit has developed an extensive work program to promote the performance of countries domestic services sectors including services trade Services for Trade Competitiveness presents selected applications of new methodologies that were developed to assess the competitiveness of countries services sectors discern the types of barriers to services that exist in the regulatory environment and identify the resulting policy implications Its assessments are designed for a wide audience including policy makers in developing countries and development practitioners in international organizations policy making institutions and academia The purpose of this book is to help policy makers in developing countries make informed policy choices to increase their chances of benefiting from the increasing prominence of services in international trade Asian Economies ,1990 The contribution of services to development and the role of trade liberalisation and regulation ,2008 Human Development Report ,1999
