Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1997 Resources in Education, 1996 Socialist Joy in the Writing of Langston Hughes Jonathan Scott, 2006 One of the foremost African American writers of his generation Langston Hughes waged a tireless campaign against racial oppression that defied the anti communist currents of cold war America This work examines his writing during this period to show that his approach to the main philosophical currents of the era was original and systematic The Psycholinguistics of Readable Writing Alice S. Horning, 1993 This book reviews research in linguistics psychology reading and writing and brings this work to bear on the problem of readable writing The research supports the theory that two factors in text are crucial to its readable quality psycholinguistic redundancy and cohesion The book also reports the results of three empirical studies and a case study that further illustrates this theory The findings have important theoretical and practical implications because they shed light on the nature of reading and writing processes from both linguistic and psychological perspectives and suggest practical approaches to the production and comprehension of readable writing The book also draws on research in second language acquisition and is pertinent to readable writing in both first and second languages Language and Literacy Learning in Multicultural Classrooms Leslie W. Crawford, 1993

Dissertation Abstracts International, 1997 Abstracts of dissertations available on microfilm or as xerographic reproductions Multiculturalism and the Canon of American Culture Hans Bak, 1993 In recent years the unity of American culture has been a major topic of literary and intellectual discussion in the United States The established reading of the American national identity has come under mounting pressure from ethnic minorities of non European origin Leading universities have adjusted the Eurocentric canon of the Western literary and cultural tradition or are considering the need to do so As a result a fierce and polarizing debate is being conducted among American writers intellectuals and educators In the nineteen essays gathered in this volume scholars from Europe and North America explore the complex range of tensions between the various subcultures and the cultural mainstream in the United States and Canada as exemplified in intellectual debate in politics in religion in higher education and in literature especially in recent American writing by members of cultural minorities Native Americans Asian Americans Hispanic Americans and African Americans The Reading/writing Connection Carol Booth Olson, 2007 This is an especially well researched and documented text the author s voice is one that is knowledgeable yet does not intend to intimidate She speaks to her audience as a dedicated professional to professional I could only hope that my students would read and retain her words of wisdom Anna L Bolling California State University Stanislaus I haven t seen any books that come close to what Carol Olson has developed Harry Noden Kent State University

The illustrations and scanned in documents make Booth Olson's book readable, interesting, relevant, and real life. These visuals from actual students help transform her ideas from theory into practice. Kathy Bussert Webb, The University of Texas at Brownsville. This is the only secondary text that I have found to explain and provide authentic examples of reading/writing workshop process. The activities are practical and motivating. Hurray for Olson! Donna Uebler, Bradley University. Now in its second edition, The Reading/Writing Connection features an array of individual reading and writing strategies, activities, and mini-lessons that teachers can implement in their classrooms. Well-respected author Carol Booth Olson extends far beyond most books intended for teachers of language arts by integrating reading and writing in creative, theory-based ways. Lauded by students and professors as a clear and straightforward text, this revised and updated edition includes plenty of material about teaching the writing process and responding to literature and provides examples of lessons that help readers learn specific strategies. Unique in its field, The Reading/Writing Connection provides student models at middle and high school levels in almost every chapter, illustrating actual student responses to reading and writing activities. The text is also rich with literary selections, giving teachers easy access to the literature featured in the activities and demonstration lessons. Features New to the Second Edition: Extensive coverage of differentiated instruction for English Language Learners. A new chapter entitled Introducing Students to the Cognitive Strategies in Their Mental Tool Kits that summarizes and clarifies students' use of cognitive strategies in their thinking. An extensive and revised companion website that features reading and writing rubrics, student models, blackline masters of graphic organizers, and much more, available at www.ablongman.com/olson2e.
