The Corpse in Modern Irish Literature Christopher Cusack, Bridget English, Matthew L. Reznicek, 2026-01-05 From the bodies rotting by the wayside in Famine fiction Synge's sodden corpses and Joyce's dead to Nuala Ní Dhomhnaill's talking corpses and the unburied and dissected remains of Celtic Tiger fiction the figure of the corpse is ubiquitous in Irish writing This collection examines the Irish corpse as a conceptually rich centrepiece with multiple differently signifying implications across this historical period as expressed in different social political and creative contexts Taking Irish literature's obsession with death as its starting point The Corpse in Modern Irish Literature demonstrates the wide ranging implications of this fixation extending it through the contexts of the tragedies of the Irish past and the emergence of new identities in the wake of colonial modernity In their range of authors and genres from the eighteenth to the twenty first century the chapters bring into focus patterns of change and continuity and extend current understanding of the Gothic mode the national tale the Irish modernist novel Irish language poetry the elegiac mode comic and tragic revivalist writings and the generic complexity of autofiction and contemporary fiction In so doing The Corpse in Modern Irish Literature makes a significant intervention in Irish studies Gothic studies death studies and medical and health humanities

The Corpse's Secret Stacy Claflin, 2022-12-02 Another corpse another day If Vanessa and Chris had known how common death was in and around their hotel they never would have moved in with their kids The latest body is proving the most problematic because it disappeared Seemingly on its own But that's impossible Isn't it The only way it could have crawled away is if he's still alive And that would mean a murderer is on the loose Again Not only that but the kids have secrets of their own The things they're hiding could jeopardize them all especially if the killer is still alive and roaming their halls Vanessa fears her husband is unravelling fast and she knows she needs to protect her family before they lose everything But she doesn't know if she has the strength
