Stable Peace Kenneth E. Boulding, 1978-05-01 The human race has often put a high value on struggle strife turmoil and excitement Peace has been regarded as a utopian unattainable perhaps dull ideal or as some random element over which we have no control However the desperate necessities of the nuclear age have forced us to take peace seriously as an object of both personal and national policy Stable Peace attempts to answer the question If we had a policy for peace what would it look like A policy for peace aims to speed up the historically slow painful but persistent transition from a state of continual war and turmoil to one of continual peace In a stable peace the war peace system is tipped firmly toward peace and away from the cycle of folly illusion and ill will that leads to war Boulding proposes a number of modest easily attainable eminently reasonable policies directed toward this goal His recommendations include the removal of national boundaries from political agendas the encouragement of reciprocal acts of good will between potential enemies the exploration of the theory and practice of nonviolence the development of governmental and nongovernmental organizations to promote peace and the development of research in the whole area of peace and conflict management Written in straightforward lucid prose Stable Peace will be of importance to politicians policy makers economists diplomats all concerned citizens and all those interested in international relations and the resolution of conflict
