Interconnected Ogyen Trinley Dorje Karmapa,2017-02-28 Plucked from a humble nomad family to become the leader of one of Tibet s oldest Buddhist lineages the young Seventeenth Karmapa draws on timeless values to create an urgent ethic for today s global community We have always been and will always be interconnected through family community and shared humanity As our planet changes and our world grows smaller it is vital we not only recognize our connections to one another and to the earth but also begin actively working together as interdependent individuals to create a truly global society The Karmapa Ogyen Trinley Dorje is uniquely positioned to guide us in this process Drawing on years of intensive Buddhist training and a passionate commitment to social issues he teaches how we can move from a merely intellectual understanding to a fully lived experience of connection By first seeing then feeling and finally living these connections we can become more effective agents of social and ethical change The Karmapa shows us how gaining emotional awareness of our connectedness can fundamentally reshape the human race He then guides us to action showing step by step how we can change the way we use the earth s resources and can continue to better our society In clear language the Karmapa draws connections between such seemingly far flung issues as consumer culture loneliness animal protection and self reliance In the process he helps us move beyond theory to practical and positive social and ethical change

Vocal Consistency and Artistic Freedom Susan Boddie,2021-07-14 As voice teachers we should strive to help our students uncover their individual sound and to facilitate technical consistency Further we as teachers should ultimately guide students to positive independent and emotionally engaged performances on stage or in recordings Some teaching approaches may guide students to these experiences others may not A successful outcome of vocal study occurs when the student no longer needs their teacher they are independent and autonomous singers and musicians and are able to teach themselves or perhaps others This study views the student teacher relationship in the voice student through an existentialist lens influenced by the Sartrean principles of responsibility and freedom The study examines some commonly used teaching approaches viewing them from an historical perspective through the National schools in vocal instruction to more current approaches that may be commonly found in higher education teaching studios This study offers a perspective that hopes to foster discussion a re examination of and self reflection in the teaching practices of higher education vocal instruction The research is grounded in hermeneutic phenomenology This paradigm was a means by which to unearth and uncover the lived experience of students undergoing vocal study One that was guided by a framework of instruction influenced by the Sartrean notions of responsibility and freedom

INTERIOR freedom rests upon the principle of non resistance to all the things which seem evil or painful to our natural love of self But non resistance alone can accomplish nothing good unless behind it there is a strong love for righteousness and truth By refusing to resist the ill will of others or the stress of circumstances for the sake of greater usefulness and a clearer point of view we deepen our conviction of righteousness as the fundamental law of life and broaden our horizon so as to appreciate varying and opposite points of view The only non resistance that brings this power is the kind which yields mere personal and selfish considerations for the sake of principles Selfish and weak yielding must always do harm Unselfish yielding on the other hand strengthens the will and increases strength of purpose as the petty obstacles of mere self love are removed Concentration alone cannot long remain wholesome for it needs the light of growing self knowledge to prevent its becoming self centred Yielding alone is of no avail for in itself it has no constructive power But if we try to look at ourselves as we really are we shall find great strength in yielding where only our small and private interests are concerned and concentrating upon living the broad principles of righteousness which must directly or indirectly affect all those with whom we come into contact
