The Evolution of a Vow Judith Schaefer, 2009 For centuries the vow of obedience has been at the heart of religious life With the renewal efforts of Vatican II the vow has been dramatically restructured but not theologically re-envisioned The Evolution of a Vow Obedience as Decision Making in Communion addresses the changes in the vow and proposes a renewed theology that supports the living out of obedience in the twenty first century Obedience in communion as a theological proposal invites vowed religious to create a pattern of limitless listening that everywhere seeks the call of God to communion Against the horizon of communion obedience becomes the singular thread of grace by which vowed religious become who they are called to be

The Reciprocating Self Jack O. Balswick, Pamela Ebstyne King, Kevin S. Reimer, 2005-04-28 On the basis of a theologically grounded understanding of the nature of persons and the self Jack O Balswick Pamela Ebstyne King and Kevin S Reimer present a model of human development that ranges across all of life s stages infancy childhood adolescence young adulthood middle adulthood elder adulthood They do this by drawing on a biblical model of relationality where the created goal or purpose of human development is to become a reciprocating self fully and securely related to others and to God Along the way they provide a context for understanding individual development issues concerns tensions worries or crises encountered by the self in the context of change Awareness of these issues is most pronounced at developmental transitional points learning to talk and walk beginning to eat unassisted going to school developing secondary sexual physical features leaving home obtaining full time employment becoming engaged and then married having a child for the first time parenting an adolescent watching children move away from home retiring experiencing decline in physical and mental health and finally facing imminent death Throughout Balswick King and Reimer contend that since God has created human beings for relationship to be a self in reciprocating relationships is of major importance in negotiating these developmental issues Critically engaging social science research and theory The Reciprocating Self offers an integrated approach that provides insight helpful to college and seminary students as well as those serving in the helping professions Those preparing for or currently engaged in Christian ministry will be especially rewarded by the in depth discussion of the implications for moral and faith development nurtured in the context of the life of the church

Holistic Nursing Practice, 1986      Moral Motivation Through the Life Span Gustavo Carlo, Carolyn P. Edwards, 2005 Moral Motivation through the Life Span is the fifty first volume in the Nebraska Symposium on Motivation series the longest continuously running symposium in the field of psychology This work focuses on moral development theory and research an area of academic study that began early in the twentieth century but has never before been addressed by the Symposium
What is morality such theorists ask and what exactly makes a moral person The contributors to this volume are of diverse theoretical orientations and take different stances on a number of major themes What motivates moral behavior Are there certain universal moral values or are such values always subjective Does an individual's will or an individual's environment play a greater role in determining moral conduct What influence can we attribute to spirituality Finally the contributors explore the practical applications of their research on moral motivation What implications do such theories have for child rearing or our educational system How do we raise the next generation to be empathetic toward their fellow human beings Gustavo Carlo is a professor of developmental psychology at the University of Nebraska Lincoln and the recipient of a distinguished research award from the American Psychological Association and the John Templeton Foundation Carolyn Pope Edwards is Willa Cather Professor and a professor of psychology and of family and consumer sciences at the University of Nebraska Lincoln She is the coauthor of Ngecha A Kenyan Community in a Time of Rapid Social Change Nebraska 2004 and the coeditor of Bambini The Italian Approach to Infant Toddler Care Beyond Self-esteem Thomas J. Cottle, 2003 In Beyond Self Esteem Thomas J Cottle argues that America's preoccupation with notions of self esteem and self regard not only does not reflect the fundamental nature of the self but leads to selfish behavior and an inability to devote one's self to friendships The self Cottle writes is predicated on social relationships and more specifically on the affirmation each of us offers to the other as well as the degree of responsibility we find ourselves willing to take for one another It is Cottle's contention reinforced by his theoretical positions and by the narrative accounts of children and adults alike that affirmation of and the assumption of responsibility for other people remain the most ethical human actions
