James Martin Peebles, 1909 John Holdsworth, Chief Mate William Clark Russell, 1880 Spring Mates Lynn

Tyler, 2015-10-21 Mating season The time when a young man's heart turns to creating a permanent bond with the one he loves At least in theory But Adam seems to have no interest in mating with Cullen though they've been together for years Cullen can't even take comfort in sure knowledge of Adam's feelings for him as Adam has yet to say the words I love you Adam's parents screwed up when they mated The bond forged by the mating bite supposed to be a way for mates to share their love and devotion became a conduit for their hatred and bitterness He won't do that to someone he loves or to himself Cullen seems to understand which is one of the things Adam loves about the man But Cullen doesn't understand and Adam's forced to decide if he's strong enough to face his fears for the man he loves Please enjoy this FREE Pack Mates short story

The Master, Mate and Pilot, 1912 Allegory and Sexual Ethics in the High Middle Ages N. Guynn, 2007-03-05

Sex, Power, Conflict David M. Buss, Neil Malamuth, 1996-04-11 Sexual harassment in the workplace date rape and domestic violence dominate the headlines and have recently sparked scholarly debates about the nature of the sexes Concurrently the scientific community is conducting research in topics of sex and gender issues Indeed more research is being done on the topics of sexual conflict and coercion than at any other time in the history of the social sciences Despite this attention it is clear that these issues are being addressed from two essentially different perspectives one is labeled feminist while the other viewed as antithetical to the feminist movement is called evolutionary psychology which emphasizes the history of reproductive strategies in understanding conflict between the sexes This book brings together leading experts from both sides of the debate in order to discover how each could offer insights lacking in the other The editors overall goal is to show how the feminist and evolutionary approaches are complementary despite their evident differences then provide an integration and synthesis In fact several of the contributors to this unique volume consider themselves advocates of both approaches As a stimulating presentation of the dynamics of sex power and conflict and a pioneering rapprochement of the diverse tendencies within the scientific community this book will attract a wide audience in both psychology and women's studies fields Queer Politics and Sexual Modernity in Taiwan Hans Tao-Ming Huang, 2011-08-01 This book analyses the critical reception of Pai Hsien yung's Crystal Boys one of Taiwan's first recognized gay novels and one which has played an important role in redefining sexual modernity and linking this to ongoing cultural dialogues on state building It examines the deployment of sexuality over the past five decades in Taiwan by paying particular attention to male homosexuality and prostitution In addition to literary and film material the study engages a number of relevant legal cases and media reports Through Hans Huang's primary research and historical investigations the book not only illuminates the construction of gendered sexual identities in Taiwanese culture but also in a reflexive fashion critiques the culture that produces them. Hans Tao Ming Huang is an assistant professor in the English Department National Central University Taiwan.

John Holdsworth: chief mate. By the author of 'Jilted'. William Clark Russell, 1875      Sexual Love Gilbert Smith Dean, 1903      The Sexual Life of Woman in Its Physiological, Pathological and Hygienic Aspects Enoch Heinrich Kisch, 1910      Evolution and "the Sex Problem" Bert Bender, 2004

A noteworthy investigation of the Darwinian element in American fiction from the realist through the Freudian eras. Theories of sexual selection and of the emotions are essential elements in American fiction from the late 1800s through the 1950s, particularly during the Freudian era and the years surrounding the Scopes trial. The Sex Problem and what resulted was a great diversity of American narratives aligned with either Darwinian or a number of anti-Darwinian theories of evolution. Included are intriguing discussions of works by Frank Norris, Jack London, Stephen Crane, Theodore Dreiser, Gertrude Stein, Willa Cather, Sherwood Anderson, F. Scott Fitzgerald, five writers of the Harlem Renaissance, John Steinbeck, and Ernest Hemingway. Among the ideas explored are Darwin's theory of common descent, the question of man's place in nature, the possibility of evolutionary progress, the issues of heredity and eugenics, the Darwinian basis of Freud's theory of sexual repression, the quandary of male violence and the role of female choice in sexual selection, the power of and the problems of racial and sexual selection, the power of and the problems of racial and sexual difference, and the ecological problems that arose directly from Darwin's theory of evolution. America's major narratives of human life and love and will be appreciated by literary scholars and readers interested in Darwinism and culture.

The Mating of Anthea Arabella Kenealy, 1911      The Master Breed Francis Joseph Dickie, 1923      A Natural History of Rape Randy Thornhill, Craig T. Palmer, 2001-02-23

A biologist and an anthropologist use evolutionary biology to explain the causes and inform the prevention of rape. In this controversial book, Randy Thornhill and Craig Palmer use evolutionary biology to explain the causes of rape and to recommend new approaches to its prevention. According to Thornhill and Palmer, evolved adaptation of some sort gives rise to rape; the main evolutionary question is whether rape is an adaptation itself or a by-product of other adaptations. Regardless of the answer, Thornhill and Palmer note that rape circumvents a central feature of women's reproductive strategy: mate choice. This is a primary reason why rape is devastating to its victims, especially young women. Thornhill and Palmer address and claim to demolish scientifically many myths about rape bred by social science theory over the past twenty-five years. The popular contention that rapists are not motivated by sexual desire, they argue, is scientifically inaccurate. Although they argue that rape is biological, Thornhill and Palmer do not view it as inevitable. Their recommendations for rape prevention include teaching young males not to rape, punishing rape more severely, and studying the effectiveness of chemical castration. They also recommend that young women consider the biological causes of rape when making decisions about dress, appearance, and social activities. Rape could cease to exist, they argue, only in a society knowledgeable about its evolutionary causes The book includes a useful summary of evolutionary theory and a comparison of evolutionary biology s and social science s explanations of human behavior The authors argue for the greater explanatory power and practical usefulness of evolutionary biology The book is sure to stir up discussion both on the specific topic of rape and on the larger issues of how we understand and influence human behavior
