Historical Archaeology and the Study of American Culture Lu Ann De Cunzo,Bernard L. Herman,1996 In this volume of essays historical archaeologists and scholars from a variety of other fields explore creative approaches to material culture as a form of cultural expression The essays derived from papers first presented at the 1991 Winterthur Conference emphasize material culture s communicative qualities its roles in social performance the construction of identity and the mediation of interaction and its interpretive limitations A special concern with contexts in their myriad forms resonates throughout the volume The contributors not only describe time and place but they seek the intimate social and symbolic details of human agency in all their diversity The essays reveal how dynamic archaeological thinking can appeal to a broader audience The first section Construction of Context Negotiating Consumer Culture groups six essays that foreground people and their choices in diverse consumer contexts The authors examine the ways that material culture illuminates the cultural dialogues between New England s native peoples and European traders urbane Virginians and their country cousins Southern slaves and their owners agrarian potters and industrial capitalists and nineteenth century Americans and the brokers of consumer culture In the second section In the Active Voice Remaking the American Landscape the attention shifts from people to the land they inhabited and changed Through close reading of multiple data sources at many scales from microscopic pollen grains to urban plans the authors of these four essays trace the remaking of eighteenth and nineteenth century American farms and cities In the third section Working toward Meaning The Scope of Historical Archaeology the authors work outward from the preceding studies directly engaging the reader in the process of reinventing historical archaeology Together with the other contributions to this volume these three concluding essays demonstrate the important place of historical archaeology in the interdisciplinary arena of material culture studies Early Industrialized Pottery Production in Illinois Floyd R. Mansberger, Fever River Research (Firm), 1997 The Protohistoric Pueblo World, A.D. 1275-1600 E. Charles Adams, Andrew I. Duff, 2016-04 In the centuries before the arrival of Europeans the Pueblo world underwent nearly continuous reorganization Populations moved from Chaco Canyon and the great centers of the Mesa Verde region to areas along the Rio Grande the Little Colorado River and the Mogollon Rim where they began constructing larger and differently organized villages many with more than 500 rooms Villages also tended to occur in clusters that have been interpreted in a number of different ways This book describes and interprets this period of southwestern history immediately before and after initial European contact A D 1275 1600 a span of time during which Pueblo peoples and culture were dramatically transformed It summarizes one hundred years of research and archaeological data for the Pueblo IV period as it explores the nature of the organization of village clusters and what they meant in behavioral and political terms Twelve of the chapters individually examine the northern and eastern portions of the Southwest and the groups who settled there during the protohistoric period The authors develop histories for settlement clusters that offer insights into their unique development and the variety of ways that villages formed these clusters These analyses show the extent to which spatial clusters of large settlements may have formed regionally organized alliances and in some cases they reveal a connection between protohistoric villages and indigenous or migratory groups from the preceding period This volume is distinct from other recent syntheses of Pueblo IV research in that it treats the settlement cluster as the analytic unit By analyzing how members of clusters of villages interacted with one another it offers a clearer understanding of the value of this level of analysis and suggests possibilities for future research In addition to offering new insights on the Pueblo IV world the volume serves as a compendium of information on more than 400 known villages larger than 50 rooms It will be of lasting interest not only to archaeologists but also to geographers land managers and general readers interested in Pueblo culture The Official Price Guide to Country Antiques and Collectibles Dana G. Morykan, 1999-02 Up to date information on thousands of antiques and collectibles from 19th and 20th century rural life 400 photos The Social Life of Pots Judith A. Habicht-Mauche, Suzanne L. Eckert, Deborah L. Huntley, 2022-09-06 The demographic upheavals that altered the social landscape of the Southwest from the thirteenth through the seventeenth centuries forced peoples from diverse backgrounds to literally remake their worlds transformations in community identity and power that are only beginning to be understood through innovations in decorated ceramics In addition to aesthetic changes that included new color schemes new painting techniques alterations in design and a greater emphasis on iconographic imagery some of the wares reflect a new production efficiency resulting from more specialized household and community based industries Also they were traded over longer distances and were used more often in public ceremonies than earlier ceramic types Through the study of glaze painted pottery archaeologists are beginning to understand that pots had social lives in this changing world and that careful reconstruction of the social lives of pots can help us understand the social lives of Puebloan peoples In this book fifteen contributors apply a wide range of technological and stylistic analysis techniques to pottery of the Rio Grande and Western Pueblo areas to show what it reveals about inter and intra community dynamics work groups migration trade and ideology in the precontact and early postcontact Puebloan world The contributors report on research conducted throughout the glaze producing areas of the Southwest and cover the full historical range of glaze ware production Utilizing a variety of techniques continued typological analyses optical petrography instrumental neutron activation analysis X ray microprobe analysis and inductively coupled plasma mass spectroscopy they develop broader frameworks for examining the changing role of these ceramics in social dynamics By tracing the circulation and exchange of specialized knowledge raw materials and the pots themselves via social networks of varying size they show how glaze ware technology production exchange and reflected a variety of dynamic historical and social processes Through this material evidence the contributors reveal that technological and aesthetic innovations were deliberately manipulated and disseminated to actively construct communities of practice that cut across language and settlement groups The Social Life of Pots offers a wealth of new data from this crucial period of prehistory and is an important baseline for future work in this area Contributors Patricia Capone Linda S Cordell Suzanne L Eckert Thomas R Fenn Judith A Habicht Mauche Cynthia L Herhahn Maren Hopkins Deborah L Huntley Toni S Laumbach Kathryn Leonard Barbara J Mills Kit Nelson Gregson Schachner Miriam T Stark Scott Van Keuren
